U.S. Getting Serious About Wind Energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is getting serious about the windmills as it pumps more money into the development of new designs for the ancient energy source.

For centuries of European and Asian civilization, windmills ground grain, drove ships and pumped water. But their importance declined with the discovery of oil and the invention of the steam engine. In this country they have been used on individual farms to pump water and drive electric generators.

Now, with world energy supplies growing scarcer and costs soaring, the windmill has acquired a new appeal as a clean, limitless source of power.

The National Science Foundation and National Aeronautics and Space Administration this week awarded $500,000 contracts to two industrial firms for preliminary design of very large wind energy systems.

The contractors, General Electric Co. Space Division and Kaman Aerospace Corp., will examine modern versions of windmills at sizes that generate 100 kilowatts for use by small communities or farm cooperatives to 3 megawatts for possible connection into the power networks of large utility companies.

A 3 megawatt windmill would be the largest ever built. Its rotor blades would be about 200 feet in diameter and each windmill could produce enough electricity to supply 100 to 200 homes, NASA reported.

The foundation plans to invest $30 million in wind energy research projects in the next five years and already has invested nearly $1 million in construction of a 100 kilowatt windmill near Sandusky, Ohio.

The Ohio windmill, to be completed next July, will stand 160 feet tall and its 120-foot-diameter blades are intended to catch the wind and convert it to enough power to run 10 homes.

That project and the newest studies are being managed for the foundation by NASA's Lewis Research Center, Cleveland.

Other wind energy projects sponsored by the foundation include research on the wind itself, methods of harnessing wind energy, small systems for remote areas, and the assessment of environmental, legal, social, economic and other issues regarding wind power.

The Atomic Energy Commission also announced this week that it is testing an egg-beater-shaped wind turbine whose 15-foot blades drive into the wind to generate electricity. A prototype has been mounted atop a building at the Sandia Laboratories in Albuquerque, N.M.

The AEC said this vertical axis turbine has the potential for wide use in the Great Plains and other places where the wind blows regularly with sufficient velocity.

In another recent development, Honolulu has said it is the first American city to pay for a study of the feasibility of building windmills.

University researchers monitored wind speeds on several Hawaiian mountain peaks and found several where speeds reached an average of 20 to 30 miles an hour. Ten m.p.h. is the minimum needed.

Earlier this year, Prof. William E. Heronomus, a civil engineer at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, proposed an ambitious scheme to supply all of New England's electricity with a network of giant windmills anchored offshore in the Atlantic Ocean.

He said 14,700 windmills located 12 to 200 miles offshore would generate 159 billion kilowatt hours of electricity a year — four times as much as the six New England states used last year.

Shotgun Accident Kills Rural North Platte Boy

NORTH PLATTE (AP) — A rural North Platte boy died Friday of a head wound sustained when a shotgun he had loaded accidentally discharged.

Lincoln County Sheriff Gordon Gilster said Walter Joseph Yates was leaving a utility room in his home where he had loaded the .20 gauge shotgun and the weapon apparently became entangled with his clothing and discharged.

Gilster said the boy was killed instantly.

Funeral services are pending at a North Platte funeral home. Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Yates.

U.N. Renews Force's Life

United Nations (AP) — The Security Council decided without dissent Friday to renew for six months the mandate of the U.N. force separating Syrian and Israeli troops. The council also called for early negotiations toward a Middle East peace settlement.

The council acted after Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim warned the members that dangers of a new military confrontation "will steadily increase" unless progress is made toward a settlement in the next six months.

By a vote of 13-0 with China and Iraq not participating, the 15-nation council adopted a resolution sponsored by six of its nonpermanent members that:

—Renewed for another six months beyond Saturday the mandate of the 1,224-member U.N. Disengagement Observer Force manning a buffer zone between the Syrians and the Israelis on the Golan Heights.

—Called upon the parties concerned to "implement immediately" the resolution the council adopted Oct. 22, 1973, after the latest Arab-Israeli war.

Besides calling for a ceasefire, the 1973 resolution demanded immediate negotiations toward a just and durable peace in the Middle East based on the 1967 formula of Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories and Arab acknowledgment of Israel's right to exist.

Peruvian Ambassador Xavier Perez de Cuellar, introducing the resolution Friday, expressed hope that its adoption would lead to the early reconvening of the Geneva peace conference "with the participation of all parties to the conflict."

Besides Peru, sponsors of the resolution were Austria, Cameroon, Indonesia, Kenya and Mauritania.

Waldheim, who returned Thursday night from a trip to Syria, Israel and Egypt, said, "It was made clear to me that we cannot expect an indeterminate period of time for a settlement to be achieved."

"I consider it vital that the next six months be used for redoubled efforts to reach political solutions."

The council's resolution asked Waldheim to submit at the end of six months a report on developments in the situation and measures taken to implement the 1973 resolution.

After the vote, Syrian Ambassador Haissam Kelani said his government agreed to renewal of the mandate "on condition that serious positive efforts be made to implement the U.N. Security Council resolutions."

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah stressed that the Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement of May 31, which the force was set up to police, "is not limited in time" even though the force mandate is subject to periodic renewal.

Under the agreement, negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Israel withdrew from June from occupied Syrian territory to the west of Quneitra, Syria pushed its administration about 20 miles west and the force took positions in a buffer zone up to five miles wide.

Amnesty For 18 In Jail Called 'Blatant Stunt'

Washington (UPI) — President Ford granted full or conditional amnesty Friday to 18 imprisoned Vietnam War resisters but a leader of resisters in Canada called the clemency act a "blatant public relations stunt."

Ford, announcing eight full pardons and 10 conditional clemencies, said:

"These first few decisions do not end the unfinished business of clemency. But the task of formal forgiveness is under way. I hope it marks the beginning of personal forgiveness in the hearts of all Americans troubled by Vietnam and its aftermath."

Jack Colhoun, a 29-year-old deserter from Marlin, Wis., said the 20,000 to 25,000 deserters or draft dodgers in Canada would "hang tight" until the administration grants unconditional amnesty.

Ford acted on the first recommendations made to him by a special amnesty board set up after he announced his earned re-entry program for military and civilian opponents of the war on Sept. 16.

Play On Emotions

"Today's pardons were purely designed to play on the emotions at the start of the Christmas season and try to make people think the program is working," Colhoun said.

"We expect the government will do a lot more of this sort of thing to try to lure resisters home. But we're not going to fall for it."

Colhoun, a member of the steering committee of the American exiles, said in Toronto the program will "never work until the President grants universal, unconditional amnesty to all resisters and ends U.S. aid to the governments of South Vietnam and Cambodia."

Gerry Condon, 26, managing editor of the exiles' magazine Amex-Canada, said, "People who resisted the war did so because they knew it was wrong and they were right. They are not prepared to go back from Canada to be punished."

Reviewed Each Case

Ford said of the 18 initial cases sent to the clemency board, he had "reviewed each one and personally approved each one."

All 18 of the cases involved civilian draft resisters imprisoned at the time of Ford's Sept. 16 announcement. At that time, 85 civilian resisters imprisoned were furloughed from jail and board chairman Charles Goodell said Friday the 67 remaining individuals would remain free until the board and the President have disposed of their cases.

The clemency, which deals only with civilian or military personnel already convicted of a war-related offense, such as draft resistance or desertion, has a potential case load of 8,700 civilians and something over 100,000 military personnel. To date, according to Goodell, some 770 persons have applied to the clemency board for review of their cases.

Although the board did release the names of the 18 individuals involved and a summary of the 18 cases involved, Goodell refused to match names with cases or to give out the hometowns of the individuals because, said Goodell, it would violate their right to privacy.

Not Stereotypes

Goodell also said the board had found "over and over again" that the applicants to the board "are not the stereotyped ideological war resisters."

"For the most part," he said, "the draft violations which we have examined were not consciously and directly related to opposition to the Vietnam War."

Of the 10 given conditional clemencies, which will become full and unconditional pardons upon fulfillment of alternate service, three were told they must perform three months of alternate service, five were told they must perform six months, one was told he must perform 10 months and one other was told he must perform 12 months of alternate service.

Youth-in Action

Teen Driver Can Relate To Another

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

It takes a teen to know a teen, believes Pam Coder. And that's why she hopes she can do something about reducing the numbers of young people involved in highway and traffic safety.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Coder, 530 N. 75, Pam was one of eight high school students selected for a new youth safety advisory committee at the recent Governor's Youth Safety Conference in Lincoln.

"We can relate better to teens' driving because we are teenage drivers," Pam contends.

A junior at Lincoln East High School, Pam took no special heed to safety measures until she began her driver's education course at school last year.

Drawn To Conference

A budding interest in safety matters drew this 16-year-old to the nation student safety conference in Oxford, Ohio, last summer. Experience gained at that gathering will come in handy when Pam and her committee cohorts set to planning next year's national conference which will be in Lincoln.

Why so many teens are involved in reckless and drunk-driving incidents is one of Pam's main concerns.

Teens are always in a hurry to get somewhere, Pam observed. And they're more apt to look at the passenger in the car with them.

But much of the carelessness Pam blames on the fact that "so many things are just new to them." Unfortunately, all too often drugs and alcohol are part of the new experiences of fledgling teen drivers, she said.

Trend Toward Alcohol

"I can see the trend of young people turning from drugs to alcohol," Pam observed. "Peer pressures — that's why kids drink. They see how drunk they can get and then they tell how they made it home safely. It kinda makes me sick."

Although she doesn't want to knock driver education programs, Pam thinks teens should be made more aware of how drinking affects driving reactions. She'd also opt for some more "gory" films in class. "These have an impact on teenagers," she feels. "It lets them know exactly what can happen."

Pam says she's not afraid to caution her friends when she's a passenger in a car that's just gone whizzing around a corner. "You don't have to be snooty about it. You just make them aware and they appreciate it."

"Response 'Excellent'"

"The community has responded uniquely, excellently," despite the economic downturn pressing all segments of Lincoln, Martin said. The 1975 goal represents "$100,000 more than was ever raised in this community."

Some campaigning for contributions will continue after the official Dec. 10 fund-raising finish date, he said.

Should the United Fund campaign fall short of its goal, "Each individual agency is going to have to sit down and check on its priorities," said Asuquo Umore, executive director of the Malone Community Center, which requested 95% of the dollars in its 1975 budget to come from the community fund.

"We do not even have an adequate staff now," Umore said; the center applied for funds to expand the staff, but should its final allocation be cut back, "I really don't know" how the center will continue

Accident Count Hits 30

Slick streets caused by the first snowfall of the year resulted in a predictable increase in fender bender accidents Friday evening, 30 of them altogether.

Pt. Pete Larimer said there were a total of 17 non-injury accidents between 2:30 p.m. and 11 p.m., three of which were hit-and-run.

But when the snow was flurrying, the accidents were too. Larimer said between 11

14% From UF

The YMCA receives about 14% of its operating expenses from the United Fund, and a spokesman said in LCS's move to push the Y toward self-sufficiency (down from 50% support in the past) any cutbacks now will present no serious problems in terms of the Y's 1975 total budget.

But at Goodwill Industries, executive director John Gedwill said, "Even if we get the $28,000 (preliminarily allocated) from the chest, we'll have a $16,000 deficit" in 1975 budget proposals.

At midnight Larimer said there were nine police units on patrol and all of them were working accidents. In addition, he said, there were "three more accidents backed up waiting for a policeman to arrive."

President To Visit China

TOKYO (AP) — President Ford will visit China next year to give fresh impetus to the development of U.S.-Chinese relations.

The presidential visit was announced Friday in an unusually brief joint communique issued after Secretary of State Henry Kissinger completed a four-day trip to China. The secretary was heading home Saturday after a stopover in Tokyo.

The statement gave no specific date or goal for Ford's visit. American officials travelling with Kissinger said the trip would take place in late 1975. Apparently it would aim at balancing out Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev's planned visit

Butz Apologizes At Ford's Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz apologized Friday, at the President's order, for a remark he made about Pope Paul VI's stand against artificial birth control.

Butz was summoned to the Oval Office and told to "apologize to any and all individuals who may have been offended."

The controversy arose out of a statement Butz made at a breakfast meeting with reporters Wednesday. The New York Daily News quoted Butz as having used a mock Italian accent to criticize the Pope's position by saying, "He no playa the game; he no maka the rules."

Butz had said at that time that the remark was off the record.

Several Roman Catholic groups called for Butz's dismissal or resignation. Early Friday, Butz issued a statement that his remark was not intended "to impugn the motives or the integrity of any religious group, ethnic group or religious leader."

The statement said: "It is unfortunate that a few remarks that I made at a news breakfast with 20 reporters last Wednesday morning were taken out of context in one account of that meeting and escalated in the news with an interpretation clearly not intended."

Ford called Butz to his office and told him that statement was inadequate. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford made it clear that the President "disapproved of the remarks, disavowed the remarks, and that the remarks in no way represent his own views."

The President, however, did not feel the remark alone was enough to cause the dismissal of the secretary.

After meeting with the President, Butz reissued the Friday statement, adding at the end of it "And I sincerely apologize for any part I played in it."

The Vatican declined any comment on the incident.

Butz has been the center of several earlier controversies, including a comment that a large amount of grain could be saved if the American pet population were cut in half, although he did not propose such a cut, and a tentative proposal by a department staff member to send a traveling tent show across the country to convince Americans that food prices are not too high.

Ford called Butz to his office and told him that statement was inadequate. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford made it clear that the President "disapproved of the remarks, disavowed the remarks, and that the remarks in no way represent his own views."

The President, however, did not feel the remark alone was enough to cause the dismissal of the secretary.

After meeting with the President, Butz reissued the Friday statement, adding at the end of it: "I sincerely apologize for any part I played in it."

The Vatican declined any comment on the incident.

Butz has been the center of several earlier controversies, including a comment that a large amount of grain could be saved if the American pet population were cut in half, although he did not propose such a cut, and a tentative proposal by a department staff member to send a traveling tent show across the country to convince Americans that food prices are not too high.

Nixon Too Ill To Testify Soon, Doctors Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is not well enough now to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial either in Washington or in California, a panel of doctors told the trial judge Friday.

The doctors estimated it will be 11 weeks or more before Nixon is sufficiently recovered from the Oct. 29 operation on his leg to travel to Washington "without excessive risk" and that he cannot even be questioned at his home until Jan. 6.

Either one of those dates would probably be too late for the trial, which is expected to be over by Christmas.

At a conference in his chambers, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica gave lawyers no indication of what he would do. He had the option of either delaying the trial or dismissing a

Industry Posts More Layoffs

By United Press International
Thousands of workers in industries from automobiles to pudding desserts returned to work following Thanksgiving Friday to learn they will be laid off.

General Motors announced it was idling an additional 24,000 workers during January, bringing the announced number of layoffs in the auto industry after the first of the year to 112,000. More than 200,000 auto workers have already been laid off through December.

General Foods Corp. said it is closing its Dover, Del., dessert plant from Dec. 20 through Jan. 6, idling 1,100 gelatin and pudding workers. The company said production at other plants also would be cut.

Celanese Corp. said it has furloughed indefinitely 3,000 textile workers and 300 fiber workers because of an "unprecedented sharpness in the reduction of demand" for clothing. The layoffs involve 13% of Celanese's work force.

In other economic developments:

- Even vacuum cleaner sales have fallen off. The Vacuum Cleaner Manufacturers Association said home vacuum sales dropped 22% in October and floor polisher sales fell .4%.
- Farmers found themselves in a worse squeeze in the first two weeks of November, according to the Agriculture Department. The department said farm prices fell 1.5% after a 4% increase in October. At the same time, farm expenses increased 1%.
- National Farmer Organization chapters in Cloud and Republic Counties in Kansas said they would slaughter calves to protest low livestock prices.
- Kroger Co., which operates 1,240 grocery stores in 20 states, Friday joined A&P in putting a freeze on many food items. Kroger President James Herring said the freeze on 1,100 items, excluding sugar, fresh meat and produce, would last until Feb. 1.
- The Federal Reserve Board said the nation's money supply grew at an annual rate of 2.4% during the latest quarter ended Nov. 20. The money supply rose about $400 million in the past week to $183.2 billion. Commercial loan demand increased, the Fed said.

First National City Bank of New York changed its internal formula to slow the rapid decline in prime interest rate for business loans. For the first time in nine weeks, Citibank declined to lower its rate and held it at 10%.

Miners' Opposition To Coal Accord Grows

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)

Rank-and-file opposition to a tentative coal industry contract grew Friday and United Mine Workers officials prepared a weekend campaign to win approval of the pact.

Secret-ballot voting on ratification of the three-year pact — the second proposal to end the strike that began Nov. 12 — will take place Monday in local unions of the 120,000-member UMW.

Before the vote, upper-echelon UMW officials, district officers and representatives of

Oil Billionaire H.L. Hunt, 85, Dies

Dallas (UPI) — Haroldson Lafayette Hunt, a fifth-grade dropout who built Texas oil exploitation into a fortune worth billions but never gave up his homesy, country style of life, died Friday. He was 85.

Hunt died of the complications of old age in Baylor Medical Center, where he had been since Sept. 14. When he entered the hospital, his ailment was described as a virus. Hunt's memory had been failing for several years.

He fell in a bathtub in 1971 in New York and hurt his back. He recovered from the injury, but it forced him to walk in a stooped position.

Hunt was an oilman who in recent years had branched off into food processing, proprietary drugs and cosmetics, but his fortune was primarily made in oil.

He once said that in World War II he owned more petroleum reserves than all the Axis countries combined.

Hunt enjoyed chatting generally about money but changed the subject when asked directly how much he was worth. His fortune was estimated by financial experts to range from $1.5 billion to $5 billion.

"Money as money is nothing," Hunt once said. "It is just something to make bookkeeping convenient."

A native of Ramsey, Ill., Hunt left home at 15, working his way across the western United States as a farm hand, laborer, lumberjack, cowboy and mule skinner.

He got into the oil business and moved to El Dorado, Ark., in 1921, but made his fortune in Texas.

Despite his wealth, Hunt lived modestly, buying ready-to-wear suits and bow ties. He avoided Texas society, bought medium-sized automobiles and drove himself, as long as he was able.

He brought his lunch to work in a paper bag for years.

Hunt frequently said that a man who constantly had to keep track of his money couldn't be much of a billionaire. It may never be known how much he was worth because much of his fortune now is in various trusts and enterprises run by his children.

Politically, he was a conservative. He organized Facts Forum and the Life Line Foundation as means of promoting his beliefs. Facts Forum, organized as a discussion project, folded in the 1950s and in 1965 the Internal Revenue Service ordered Hunt to start paying tax on Life Line. Life Line was a nightly commentary program broadcast by radio stations.

America's Big Mouths

There is honest disagreement among thoughtful people with the Catholic Church's position on birth control and with Pope Paul VI's recent statement aimed at the World Food Conference in Rome that overpopulation is not necessarily the major cause of starvation in the world.

A case can be made that there is some sort of correlation between the number of mouths to feed and the amount of food available.

But even if there can be disagreement with the Catholic Church and the Pope, high-ranking officials should not take leave of their senses and manners to direct ethnic slurs and religious put-downs at the Italian people, those of the Catholic faith and the Pope specifically.

Secretary of the Agriculture Earl Butz, whom we hope is soon the former secretary, disgraced himself and the Ford administration this week with an offensive and unnecessary jab at the Pope: "He no play-a the game; he no make-a the rules." With that mock Italian accent and the message it carried, Butz offended millions. This was not just another ethnic joke which all but the very thin-skinned could put up with whether they liked it or not. Coming from a high American official it was all the more tasteless and deserving of contempt.

Butz said the remark was off the record; he has not denied making it.

Just last month the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, America's top general, George Brown of the Air Force, gave a Duke University audience a few of his thoughts on the extent of Jewish power and influence in this country. Those remarks, for which he later apologized, saying they were ill-considered and not representative of his true feelings, drew for him a rebuke from Ford and an angry reaction from the American Jewish community.

Now Ford's secretary of agriculture has insulted the Italians, the Catholic Church and its spiritual leader, the Pope.

Ethnic and religious jokes abound in America, the melting pot of the world. Most of them are not meant seriously and we hope that Americans of any background don't get oversensitive to such foolishness, as tasteless as it may be.

But when such slurs or innuendoes come from the mouths of the American government's first echelon, that is a different story. Especially when they are not "jokes," per se, but references to serious problems facing the world today.

Two Nixon-Ford appointees have not had very good luck when it comes to the use of diplomatic language. They have offended millions of people. When Ford completes his anticipated shakeup in the administration, he should give ample thought to sending the new appointees to finishing school.

A Little More Time

It would appear from reports from United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim and other diplomatic sources that the world can breathe a little easier for the next few months. War in the Middle East apparently has been averted until next spring or early summer, when it most certainly will come unless progress is made in the negotiations between Israel and her Arab antagonists.

Syria's reluctant acceptance of another six-month stint for UN peace-keeping forces on the Israel-Syrian front — something the Syrians say they will not accede to again — is the key to delaying a possible, and what many thought was probable, outbreak of hostilities in the Mid-

Nobody should drop their guard, however. There will have to be much hard talk at the negotiating tables and territorial concessions by Israel if war is to be averted next year. And the oil consuming nations are still going to have to learn to be less dependent on Arab oil.

The Lethal Mistakes

NEW YORK — Nelson Rockefeller has been unanimously approved for the vice presidency by the Senate Rules Committee, and his nomination appears to be sailing easily through the House Judiciary Committee. Yet, Rockefeller admitted to the Senate committee that he made one major error in the handling of the prison revolt at Attica in 1971. He admitted to the House committee that he made a second major error during that revolt. Those two errors opened the way to the deaths of 39 men, including 10 corrections officers and prison employees.

When asked, moreover, by Rep. Charles Rangel of New York why he had not personally gone to Attica, as he had been urged to do, Rockefeller said he was "no messiah," saw nothing he could do, and "so there on national television would be Nelson Rockefeller and he would be the man who failed." Earlier, when Rep. David Dennis of Indiana asked the same question, Rockefeller had said that if he had gone to Attica, he "would just be giving approval" to the holding of hostages.

Neither of these explanations which are quoted from newspaper accounts, not the transcript of the committee hearings, should be of much comfort to the relatives of 39 dead men.

Whether Rockefeller was seen on television to have failed seems a minor public relations concern compared to a governor's responsibility to take every conceivable step that might save the lives of state employees, not to mention those confined by the state.

As for negotiating with people who hold hostages, it may be an unpleasant necessity, but sometimes humanity demands that it be done — and in fact it is done all the time, all over the world, and quite often successfully.

Placing such an abstract principle above the human desire to save lives may not commend Rockefeller to everyone as a man who should be in line of succession as commander in chief of the armed forces.

Inmates rioted and gained temporary control of much of the prison on Thursday morning, Sept. 9, 1971. By early afternoon, state troopers had recaptured most prison areas, using minimum force — no loss of life — and confining about 1,200 rebels with their hostages in Exercise Yard D. With Governor Rockefeller's concurrence, Corrections Commissioner Russell Oswald then opened negotiations with the inmates.

At the hearings last week, Rockefeller told Rangel he "probably the most serious mistake I made — and this is the first time I have said this — was not to have overridden the commissioner's decision to stop the retake of the prison by state police." Many prison administrators and policemen agree with this, as the rebellion might possibly have been terminated then without the use of lethal force.

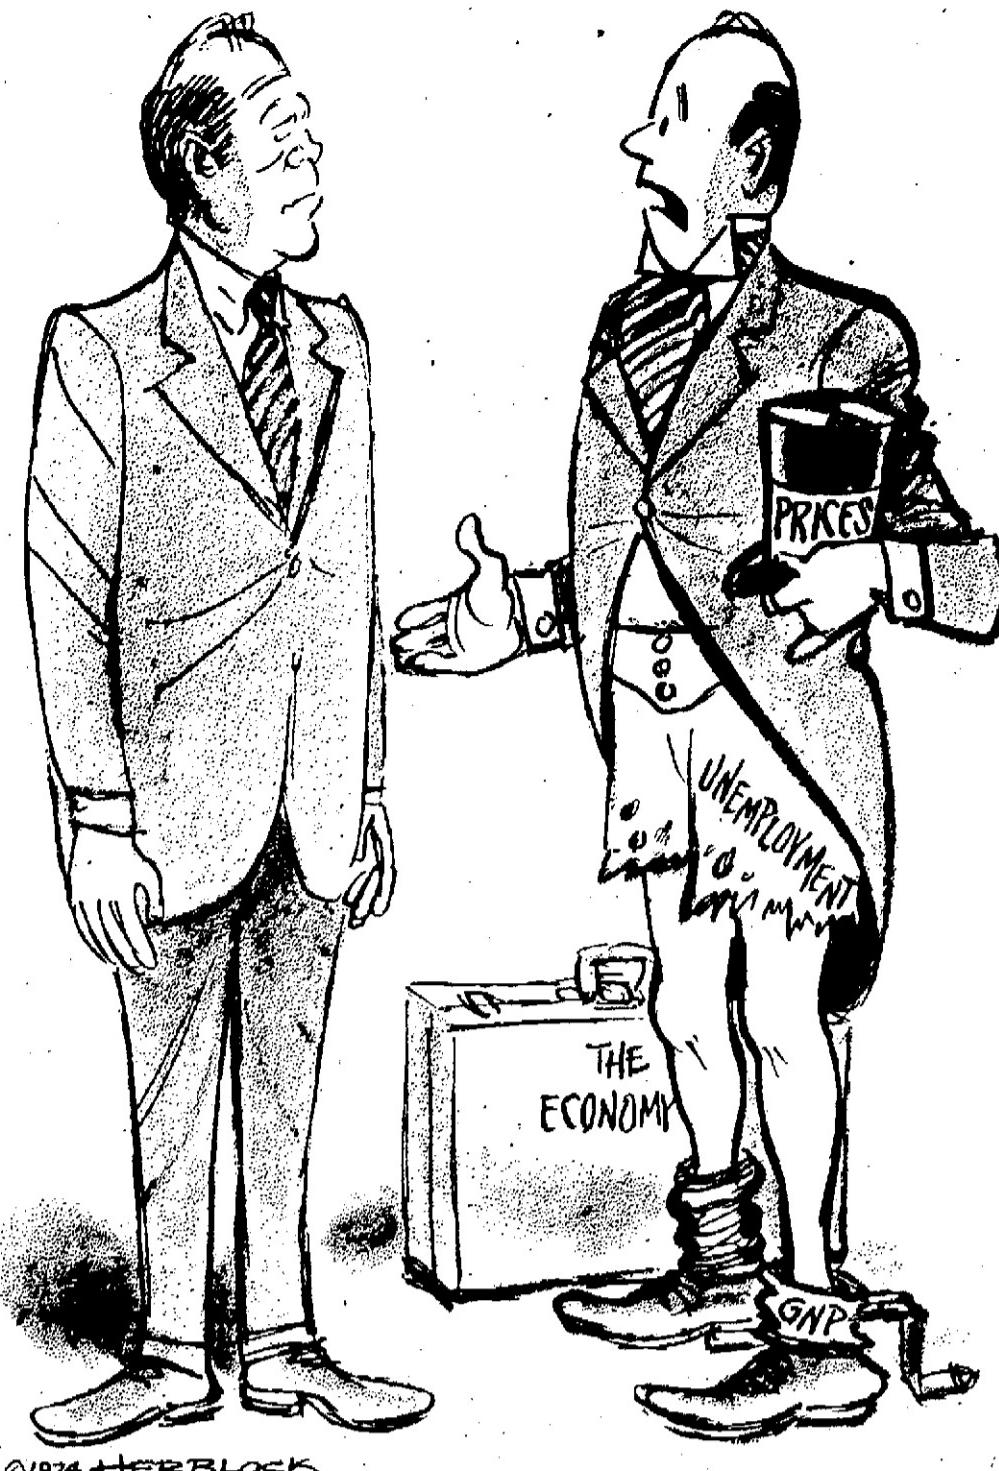

But Rockefeller allowed negotiations to proceed that day and the next three, although he did not at any time go to Attica himself. Then, no settlement having been reached, on the morning of Sept. 13, he permitted state troopers to attack D-Yard with tear gas, shotguns, rifles and sidearms, killing 39 men, including 10 hostages, and wounding 80.

Last September, to the Senate Rules Committee, Rockefeller suggested that the attack with lethal weapons had been a mistake.

That was in reference to state police. Is there any reason to believe Rockefeller would be less deferential to the professionals of the Pentagon?

The Longest Battle

NEW YORK — There was this night in Eindhoven, Holland, last September. The public square was immersed in light, smothered in sound. The Dutch people of the area had come to the place to be part of the 30th anniversary of their liberation from the Nazis by American paratroopers.

Prince Bernhard, resplendent in his general's uniform, marched briskly to his place in the reviewing stand. Dozens of groups ranging from old Dutch resistance fighters to children so young they had probably never heard of Hitler or von Rundstedt, or Maxwell Taylor or Jim Gavin, entered the square with spit-and-polish precision.

But then there came on the scene one who didn't walk so good. He needed the help of a stout cane and the arm of his unswervingly wonderful wife, Kathy. It took him a terribly long time to make it across the rapidly filling square to a seat that was his in the reviewing place.

It was Connie Ryan, making what turned out to be his last public appearance. A friend in the stands wept quietly.

To look upon a man dying of cancer is one thing; to look upon one who squares his jaw and growls, "Goddamnit, I'm not going to die!" is another. Sadder, in a way. I tried to get a picture of my friend that night, to laugh over later over a drink of Irish whisky. But the bloody picture didn't turn out.

Not did Connie.

He died last weekend at 54. His book about Field Marshal Montgomery's disastrous effort to find a short-cut to victory in 1944 by pouncing on the Dutch bridges that led to the Ruhr was No. 2 on the best seller list in the nation, No. 1 in other countries. As were his two great earlier histories of World War II, "The Longest Day" and "The Last Battle." His "A Bridge Too Far" will become a memorable motion picture.

Connie started dying of cancer three or four years ago when he was about halfway through "A Bridge Too Far." He decided he couldn't afford to die. In the first place, it was too important a story to die on; in the second, he sensed he'd need the money. Dying of cancer these days, with all the appearances of a hospital room, radiation and chemotherapy is about as expensive as buying a yacht.

The story, of course, mattered more to this man who regarded reporting as just as important.

More than 300 civic leaders gathered at the Morrison Hotel in Chicago for the testimonial dinner. Illinois' governor, Otto Kerner, and Chicago's mayor, Richard Daley, were among those present.

Illinois' senators, Paul H. Douglas and Everett M. Dirksen, were unable to come, but they sent telegrams of congratulations.

The man honored at that affair in 1963 was a noted Chicago physician and philanthropist: Dr. Theodore K. Lawless.

The tributes to Lawless marked a special occasion — the successful conclusion of a drive to raise funds for a dermatology clinic in Israel.

Dr. Lawless not only made a substantial personal contribution to the project but also spearheaded the Chicago fund drive.

In recognition of his work and his generosity, Israeli officials named the clinic — a department of the Beilinson Hospital in Jerusalem — in honor of Dr. Lawless.

Hopes For Execution

Lincoln, Neb.

Concerning the bleeding-heart article appearing in The Star's November 25 edition about the two airmen who must face either a hangman or a firing squad, I find myself a little upset. Perhaps the two should have been given the choice either of drinking Drano or having a ballpoint pen kicked through their ear into their brain, since that was the choice they gave the victims of their crime.

The story attempted to arouse our sympathy by equating the conviction of these two men with that of Joe Hill who had been executed some 50 years earlier on the basis of somewhat less than conclusive evidence. However, these two were convicted on the basis of both eye-witness testimony and concrete evidence. One of the victims was able to recover sufficiently enough to testify in court.

I was also appalled by the author's attempt to evoke visions of revengeful Mormon vigilante groups out hanging Indians from every railway bridge, while skillfully failing to point out some of the important details that make the crime of these two particularly heinous. He failed to say that one woman was literally cut to shreds, or that one recently engaged 18-year-old was stripped of her clothes and brutally raped before she was murdered.

But perhaps the thing that causes me the most consternation is the fact that in all likelihood, the executions will never be carried out. It has been a good many years since the last time anyone was lawfully executed under the statutes of capital punishment. I sincerely hope that Utah will have the courage to obey the law in this case.

The Right To Know

Lincoln, Neb.

The primary reason for secrecy in working government is to cover up. It is easier to function this way if the public is asleep and will allow you to do so.

The busy distracted news media are partly to blame. With inflation driving the ordinary person against the economic wall, it is time to demand a published accounting from the regulatory agencies on the dollars-and-cents figures that cause them to make their decisions burdening the people.

Take the insurance industry. The director of insurance is considering allowing an increase in the premium rate. The figures are available and it should be printed in attention-attracting type in the newspaper what the premium intake and the loss output were for the classes of insurance within Nebraska. The ratio should be given as it compares to the last five to 10 years. Companies receiving special rate consideration should have their profits and losses publicized lucidly. We ought to know whether or not they are recognized as having cyclical aspects (high one year and lower another year) and we ought to know what the margin of profit is targeted by the regulators and how closely it approaches it on average.

At a skin specialist of wide renown, Dr. Lawless amassed a fortune. (Ebony magazine listed him among America's 35 Negro millionaires) and then turned to philanthropy, saying he intended to give it all away.

He helped struggling medical students pay their bills; he contributed a pipe organ to Talladega College which he once attended; he established a research center at Provident Hospital in Chicago and he arranged for the purchase of a $700,000 apartment building to provide faculty housing at Dillard University.

Most of his giving was done quietly, with Lawless carefully shunning personal publicity.

It was a role familiar to him. Lawless once said he remembered his father, a Congregationalist minister, "always being broke from helping others."

Lawless, who was born in Thibodaux, La., in 1894, earned only $1 a week on his first job in New Orleans' Mount Olivet Cemetery.

America's Big Mouths

There is honest disagreement among thoughtful people with the Catholic Church's position on birth control and with Pope Paul VI's recent statement aimed at the World Food Conference in Rome that overpopulation is not necessarily the major cause of starvation in the world.

A case can be made that there is some sort of correlation between the number of mouths to feed and the amount of food available.

But even if there can be disagreement with the Catholic Church and the Pope, high-ranking officials should not take leave of their senses and manners to direct ethnic slurs and religious put-downs at the Italian people, those of the Catholic faith and the Pope specifically.

Secretary of the Agriculture Earl Butz, whom we hope is soon the former secretary, disgraced himself and the Ford administration this week with an offensive and unnecessary jab at the Pope: "He no play-a the game; he no make-a the rules." With that mock Italian accent and the message it carried, Butz offended millions. This was not just another ethnic joke which all but the very thin-skinned could put up with whether they liked it or not. Coming from a high American official it was all the more tasteless and deserving of contempt.

Butz said the remark was off the record; he has not denied making it. Just last month the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, America's top general, George Brown of the Air Force, gave a Duke University audience a few of his thoughts on the extent of Jewish power and influence in this country. Those remarks, for which he later apologized, saying they were ill-considered and not representative of his true feelings, drew for him a rebuke from Ford and an angry reaction from the American Jewish commun-

Now Ford's secretary of agriculture has insulted the Italians, the Catholic Church and its spiritual leader, the Pope.

Ethnic and religious jokes abound in America, the melting pot of the world. Most of them are not meant seriously and we hope that Americans of any background don't get oversensitive to such foolishness, as tasteless as it may be.

But when such slurs or innuendoes come from the mouths of the American government's first echelon, that is a different story. Especially when they are not "jokes," per se, but references to serious problems facing the world today.

Two Nixon-Ford appointees have not had very good luck when it comes to the use of diplomatic language. They have offended millions of people. When Ford completes his anticipated shakeup in the administration, he should give ample thought to sending the new appointees to finishing school.

A Little More Time

It would appear from reports from United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim and other diplomatic sources that the world can breathe a little easier for the next few months. War in the Middle East apparently has been averted until next spring or early summer, when it most certainly will come unless progress is made in the negotiations between Israel and her Arab antagonists.

Syria's reluctant acceptance of another six-month stint for UN peace-keeping forces on the Israel-Syrian front — something the Syrians say they will not accede to again — is the key to delaying a possible, and what many thought was probable, outbreak of hostilities in the Middle East that would have pulled the U.S. into a war this winter and most certainly have meant another Arab oil embargo.

Some time has been purchased not only for the belligerents in the Middle East, but for the rest of the world. Apparently for the next six months or so blood will not flow in the Middle East but the oil will continue to flow.

Nobody should drop their guard, however. There will have to be much hard talk at the negotiating tables and territorial concessions by Israel if war is to be averted next year. And the oil consuming nations are still going to have to learn to be less dependent on Arab oil.

The Lethal Mistakes

NEW YORK — Nelson Rockefeller has been unanimously approved for the vice presidency by the Senate Rules Committee, and his nomination appears to be sailing easily through the House Judiciary Committee. Yet, Rockefeller admitted to the Senate committee that he made one major error in the handling of the prison revolt at Attica in 1971. He admitted to the House committee that he made a second major error during that revolt. Those two errors opened the way to the deaths of 39 men, including 10 corrections officers and prison employees.

When asked, moreover, by Rep. Charles Rangel of New York why he had not personally gone to Attica, as he had been urged to do, Rockefeller said he was "no messiah," saw nothing he could do, and "so there on national television would be Nelson Rockefeller and he would be the man who failed." Earlier, when Rep. David Dennis of Indiana asked the same question, Rockefeller had said that if he had gone to Attica, he "would just be giving approval" to the holding of hostages.

Neither of these explanations (which are quoted from newspaper accounts, not the transcript of the committee hearings) should be of much comfort to the relatives of 39 dead men. Whether Rockefeller was seen on television to have failed seems a minor public relations concern compared to a governor's responsibility to take every conceivable step that might save the lives of state employees, not to mention those confined by the state. As for negotiating with people who hold hostages, it may be an unpleasant necessity, but sometimes humanity demands that it be done — and in fact it is done all the time, all over the world, and quite often successfully.

Placing such an abstract principle above the human desire to save lives may not command Rockefeller to everyone as a man who should be in line of succession as commander in chief of the armed forces. Inmates rioted and gained temporary control of much of the prison on Thursday morning, Sept. 9, 1971. By early afternoon, state troopers had recaptured most prison areas, using minimum force — no loss of life — and confining about 1,200 rebels with their hostages in Exercise Yard D. With Governor Rockefeller's concurrence, Corrections Commissioner Russell Oswald then opened negotiations with the inmates.

At the hearings last week, Rockefeller told Rangel that "probably the most serious mistake I made — and this is the first time I have said this — was not to have overridden the commissioner's decision to stop the retake of the prison by state police." Many prison administrators and policemen agree with this, as the rebellion might possibly have been terminated without the use of lethal force.

But Rockefeller allowed negotiations to proceed that day and the next three, although he did not at any time go to Attica himself. Then, no settlement having been reached, on the morning of Sept. 13, he permitted state troopers to attack D-Yard with tear gas, shotguns, rifles and sidearms, killing 39 men, including 10 hostages, and wounding 80.

Last September, to the Senate Rules Committee, Rockefeller suggested that the attack with lethal weapons had been a mistake.

State Welfare Policies Said Hampering Services To Citizens

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Community service agencies Friday told the Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee that State Department of Public Welfare policies and regulations are hampering and restricting their services to citizens in need.

"We have reached a point now where many of us feel that we will be unable to run programs at all if some of this is not straightened out," former Sen. Elmer Wallwey told the committee.

Wallwey, who heads the community program for mental retardation in 22 northeast Nebraska counties, acted as spokesman for community agencies providing mental retardation, developmental day care and elderly services throughout the state.

Changes Produce Difficulties

Changing state welfare directives and regulations have produced difficulties for the agencies in "implementing the procedures that are required in order for us to receive federal money to run our programs," Wallwey noted.

The fee schedule recently adopted by the department for developmental day care is "so high that it, in effect, will bar people from utilizing" the service, he said.

Developmental day care provides individualized programs tailored to meet a child's unique needs.

Under the new fee proposal, Wallwey said, a low-income family could be charged as much as one-third of its total income for such services.

The department has "totally disallowed" any developmental day care services for the elderly, he said.

Day Care

Federal legislation was "designed to provide developmental day care services, services to the aged and services to the mentally retarded without restrictions that were so severe that many people could not participate," Wallwey told the committee.

Yet, the department has promulgated "new restrictive requirements" which will force community agencies to charge amounts so high that participation will be impossible, he said.

"... when these services are provided, we allow persons to leave ADC (the program of aid to dependent children) and become tax-paying citizens in the community, and we provide services so that mentally retarded citizens may become taxpayers instead of tax burdens," he told the senators.

As for the elderly, community services are intended to keep persons off the public assistance rolls and out of nursing homes, he said.

"If the current requirements, regulations, processes and restrictions continue to be placed on the purchase of service, we fear that we will be placed in the position of having to close down services, or cut off services to certain persons currently being served."

Wallwey, speaking for the community agency groups, urged the legislative committee to recommend that the Department of Public Welfare place a "hold" on new or altered regulations pending further study.

In the meantime, he said, the committee should appoint a study unit to consider "statewide reorganization" of the department and other agencies "so that an efficient system can be developed."

Among specific complaints:

The proposed new fee schedule "will force many day care centers across the state to close."

No regulation changes are presented for public hearing.

Mental retardation regional offices should have a one year's contract with the department so they are not "wide open for changes which may occur from day to day."

Community agencies are not informed of changes in federal requirements until services are already carried out and costs incurred. Then the costs are disallowed by the state.

Community agencies are provided with little, if any, opportunity for "input" into departmental decisions.

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha arranged Friday's meeting after being informed of what he called "problems in the delivery of human services" because of changing welfare rules.

There has been "an increasing lack of communication" between the department and community agencies, Wallwey said.

Welfare Committee Endorses Plan For Department Of Aging

By The Associated Press

The Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee Friday endorsed a plan by State Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue to create a new state agency to guarantee transportation, proper nutrition and health care to Nebraska's senior citizens.

Lewis said the new department of aging would be charged with visiting the elderly, determining the services they need and delivering the services.

A department is the state's equivalent to a federal Cabinet level agency. It would be run by a director appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Legislature.

Separate Agency

Lewis said his proposed legislation would leave the Nebraska Commission on Aging as a separate agency to serve as an advocate for the elderly. But Lewis said some of the administrative functions of the commission would be turned over to the new department.

The Bellevue senator said the commission could do more to see that services were given to the elderly if it was itself removed from the bureaucracy.

The programs offered by the new agency would consolidate programs now offered by community action agencies, the Commission on Aging and the departments of Public Health and Welfare. He said some local programs would also be included.

The programs the existing agencies now offer include visiting nurses, special bus service, meal delivery and home repair.

Lewis gave no estimate of the amount of money needed, but said it would represent a commitment by the legislature to provide a meaningful way of life for the 25,000 nebraskans over 60.

Some Cost Offsetting

He said the cost would be offset to a great extent because hundreds of senior citizens would be given enough services to function by themselves outside of nursing homes.

Lewis, who served as chairman of a subcommittee studying the elderly, said that present services are fragmented, causing agencies to shuffle senior citizens between governmental subdivisions.

Under Lewis' plan, the Department of Aging would be charged with the responsibility of finding what services are needed for the elderly and providing them. The committee also voted to introduce a bill which would license medical technologists and radiologists.

The committee approved the drafting of another bill which would change the procedure for committing someone to a mental institution who had not committed a crime.

Under the proposed system, someone seeking the involuntary commitment of a relative would go to court. A judge would appoint an attorney to act as hearing officer to hear testimony on whether the individual was sane.

ICLU Raps Court

Des Moines (UPI) — The Iowa Civil Liberties Union (ICLU) Foundation sharply criticized the Polk County juvenile court for the caliber of legal representation offered to young people taken to the court.

Hit-Run Accident Kills 1; Trucks Collide, 2 Killed

By The Associated Press

A pedestrian was killed in a hit-and-run accident south of North Platte Friday night bringing to three the number of persons who have died in traffic over the Thanksgiving Holiday weekend.

Lincoln County Sheriff Gordon "Hop" Gilster said the accident occurred on a curve along Highway 83. The name of the victim was withheld until relatives are notified.

The deaths bring the 1974 Nebraska highway fatality toll to 357 compared with 405 on this date one year ago.

Dean Halsey, 44, of Omaha, said he was westbound on the Iowa side of the I-480 bridge about 10:45 p.m. when he spotted the car in trouble. Halsey said the car had lost its drive shaft, which prevented the car from being moved off the road for about 25 minutes. He said the car was blocking 1½ lanes.

During that time, he said, several cars nearly collided with the stalled car. "One car spun around three times and finally hit the retaining wall. Someone could have been killed out there," he said.

He said he radioed to another club member, Dean Myers, of Omaha, who called Council Bluffs police. Yet another club member finally came with yellow flashing lights and the group finally pushed the car off the bridge, he said.

Council Bluffs Police Capt. John Schweer, who said he came on duty at 10:45 p.m. Wednesday, said he was not aware of what had happened.

"I know it shouldn't have been that way," he said. "It shouldn't make any difference. If a car gets a call, they stay on, no matter what."

He said he would check with those on duty to find out what happened.

Halsey and Myers are members of Douglas County React, a citizens band radio organization.

Beatrice Man, 80, Dies From Injuries In Crash

By The Associated Press

An elderly Beatrice man is Nebraska's latest reported traffic fatality.

Beatrice police said James Lambert, 80, of Beatrice died early Friday morning in a Beatrice hospital of injuries he suffered in a two-car collision at a Beatrice intersection Wednesday afternoon.

The driver of the other auto was Matthew J. Schroeder, 17, of DeWitt.

Schroeder was not injured in the mishap, but the passenger in his car suffered minor cuts.

The death will not be counted on Nebraska's Thanksgiving holiday toll because the accident occurred before the holiday weekend officially began.

State Welfare Policies Said Hampering Services To Citizens

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Community service agencies Friday told the Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee that State Department of Public Welfare policies and regulations are hampering and restricting their services to citizens in need.

"We have reached a point now where many of us feel that we will be unable to run programs at all if some of this is not straightened out," former Sen. Elmer Wallwey told the committee.

Wallwey, who heads the community program for mental retardation in 22 northeast Nebraska counties, acted as spokesman for community agencies providing mental retardation, developmental day care and elderly services throughout the state.

Changes Produce Difficulties

Changing state welfare directives and regulations have produced difficulties for the agencies in "implementing the procedures that are required in order for us to receive federal money to run our programs," Wallwey noted.

The fee schedule recently adopted by the department for developmental day care is "so high that it is effect, will bar people from utilizing" the service, he said.

Developmental day care provides individualized programs tailored to meet a child's unique needs.

Under the new fee proposal, Wallwey said, a low-income family could be charged as much as one-third of its total income for such services.

The department has "totally disallowed" any developmental day care services for the elderly, he said.

Day Care

Federal legislation was "designed to provide developmental day care services, services to the aged and services to the mentally retarded without restrictions that were so severe that many people could not participate," Wallwey told the committee.

Yet, the department has promulgated "new restrictive requirements" which will force community agencies to charge amounts so high that participation will be impossible, he said.

"... when these services are provided, we allow persons to leave ADC (the program of aid to dependent children) and become tax-paying citizens in the community, and we provide services so that mentally retarded citizens may become taxpayers instead of tax burdens," he told the senators.

As for the elderly, community services are intended to keep persons off the public assistance rolls and out of nursing homes, he said.

If the current requirements, regulations, processes and restrictions continue to be placed on the purchase of service, we fear that we will be placed in the position of having to close down services, or cut off services to certain persons currently being served."

Wallwey, speaking for the community agency groups, urged the legislative committee to recommend that the Department of Public Welfare place "a hold" on new or altered regulations pending further study.

In the meantime, he said, the committee should appoint a study unit to consider "statewide reorganization" of the department and other agencies "so that an efficient system can be developed."

Among specific complaints:

The proposed new fee schedule "will force many day care centers across the state to close."

No regulation changes are presented for public hearing.

Mental retardation regional offices should have a one year's contract with the department so they are not "wide open for changes which may occur from day to day."

Community agencies are not informed of changes in federal requirements until services are already carried out and costs incurred. Then the costs are disallowed by the state.

Community agencies are provided with little, if any, opportunity for "input" into departmental decisions.

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha arranged Friday's meeting after being informed of what he called "problems in the delivery of human services" because of changing welfare rules.

There has been "an increasing lack of communication" between the department and community agencies, Wallwey said.

Welfare Committee Endorses Plan For Department Of Aging

By The Associated Press

The Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee Friday endorsed a plan by State Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue to create a new state agency to guarantee transportation, proper nutrition and health care to Nebraska's senior citizens.

Lewis said the new department of aging would be charged with finding the elderly, determining the services they need and delivering the services.

A department is the state's equivalent to a federal Cabinet level agency. It would be run by a director appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Legislature.

Separate Agency

Lewis said his proposed legislation would leave the Nebraska Commission on Aging as a separate agency to serve as an advocate for the elderly. But Lewis said some of the administrative functions of the commission would be turned over to the new department. The Bellevue senator said the commission could do more to see that services were given to the elderly if it was itself removed from the bureaucracy.

The programs offered by the new agency would consolidate programs now offered by community action agencies, the Commission on Aging and the departments of Public Health and Welfare. He said some local programs would also be included.

The programs the existing agencies now offer include visiting nurses, special bus service, meal delivery and home repair.

Lewis gave no estimate of the amount of money needed, but said it would represent a commitment by the legislature to provide the funds needed to provide a meaningful way of life for the 250,000 Nebraskans over 60.

Some Cost Offsetting

He said the cost would be offset to a great extent because hundreds of senior citizens would be given enough services to function by themselves outside of nursing homes.

Lewis, who served as chairman of a subcommittee studying the elderly, said that present services are fragmented, causing agencies to shuffle senior citizens between governmental subdivisions.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

Second Psalm and Acts 4:25

"Man, when left to himself, IS HALF FIEND AND HALF BRUTE," Bishop Hall. "Man, when left to himself, IS A MOTTLED MIXTURE OF THE BEAST AND THE DEVIL," William Law.

74 Comment:

Do not some look the part?

The dread foes of man are not belligerent circumstances, but the riotous passions — the leopard of incontinence, the lion of violence, the wolf of avarice. Incontinence means "lack of restraint, especially undue indulgence of sexual passions; licentiousness, etc." Great nations and empires of history as a result of this sin have rotted from within, decayed, perished. Is not our great land in danger of the same curse. "Chastity is driven away as an enemy by all men, like a snake." Is not the "lion of violence" and the "wolf of avarice" back and the cause of riots, strikes, etc., It is said that a wolf is hungrier after food than before.

"A man may foretell as plainly as can be what will become of us, if we grow indifferent and lukewarm in repressing evil. Make it a shame to see men hold in profligacy, and God will bless you. Be confident that our liberty and prosperity depend upon reformation — if not what difference is there between a man and a beast?"

"Beware of making laws in the face of God — telling The Almighty you will meet all His dispensations, and stay things, whether He will, or no."

"God will curse me, if I put personal interests above duty," — Oliver Cromwell. (Consider this last statement, remembering Pontius Pilate, "Suffered under Pontius Pilate" because of conflict of interest!)

"Devoutly thankful ought we to be for the gift of great and good men. They are God's noblest work — For nothing should the people of God more devoutly pray than that their great men may be good men. If we had been doing that during the past few decades, do you reckon we would today have a Supreme Court such as is one that has taken away from our schools and children God's Book, The Bible, and The Lord's Prayer. I think not. Or, we would have such men in authority over us that let them get by with it, I think not! One honest statesman — one great sanctified, devout, Christian man in the Senate or Cabinet of a nation, or at its head — is worth more to a nation than all the riches of El Dorado, and Dorado, is a surer defense than all his armies and navies."

"Every young man should strive by the best possible improvement of his talents and opportunities, to make himself a great and a good man. This is a trait and noble ambition. A great and a good man is the noblest work of God — strive then, my young friend, to fit yourself for the times in which you live."

"God give us preachers, teachers, and students, that put 'THE STUDY OF THEIR OWN HEARTS' above the study of their books, 'Search the Scriptures,' for it is the mirror by which God reveals to us our hearts. 'For The Lord seeth not as man seeth, for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart.' 1st Samuel 16."

"FOR ALL FLESH IS AS GRASS, AND ALL THE GLORY OF MAN AS THE FLOWER OF THE GRASS. THE GRASS WITHERETH, AND THE FLOWER THEREOF FALLETH AWAY; BUT THE WORD OF THE LORD ENDURETH FOREVER, AND THIS IS THE WORD WHICH BY THE GOSPEL IS PREACHED UNTO YOU." 1st Peter 1:24, 25.

"FOR ALL THAT IS IN THE WORLD, THE LUST OF THE EYES, AND THE PRIDE OF LIFE, IS NOT OF THE FATHER, BUT IS OF THE WORLD, AND THE WORLD PASSETH AWAY, AND THE LUST THEREOF BUT BE THAT DOETH THE WILL OF GOD ABIDETH FOR EVER." 1st John 2:16, 17.

and we sat in my kitchen drinking coffee and getting acquainted. I really started to like this man.

He said he wasn't married and it would be nice to see me again. He gave me his name and phone number and I gave him mine. A week passed and he didn't call, so I called him and asked (in a joking way) if he had lost my number.

He said no, he was just going to call me. I asked him if he wanted to come over for supper that night and he said yes. He came, bringing a box of candy.

I'm sorry to say that he didn't waste much time letting me know he expected to be entertained in the bedroom. I said I wasn't that kind of person.

He left rather early and acted disappointed. He told me to call him if I ever changed my mind.

I really want to see him again,

Parents Should Vow To Stay Independent

By ROBERT PETERSON

We should vow we'll never live with our children. If we make this vow early, incorporate it into our thinking, and plan our finances in such a way as to permit us to stock it, we'll find it easier to chart the course of our retirement years.

This subject deserves periodic discussion, for it touches a situation which many children and parents must eventually face.

Children who harbor a natural affection for their parents are tempted to say "Come live with us." But parental love thrives best in an atmosphere of underexposure. When you're rubbing shoulders month after month with an older mother or father, the warm, loving relationship which should exist between parents and grown children often deteriorates into one of grudging toleration.

A woman has written me that in a weak moment following marriage she and her husband invited her widowed mother to come live with them. "That was 20 years ago," she says. "All these years our family life has been subtly disrupted, for Mother is a woman with very definite ideas."

"She didn't mean to, but she couldn't keep from imposing her views on us. She was kind to our two sons, but they were always a little frightened of her and sensed that they didn't quite meet her standards. And we could never go anywhere without taking her along. We didn't mind this but she always wanted to go home before anyone else was ready."

Parents Should Vow To Stay Independent

By ROBERT PETERSON

We should vow we'll never live with our children. If we make this vow early, incorporate it into our thinking, and plan our finances in such a way as to permit us to stock to it, we'll find it easier to chart the course of our retirement years.

This subject deserves periodic discussion, for it touches a situation which many children and parents must eventually face.

Children who harbor a natural affection for their parents are tempted to say "Come live with us." But parental love thrives best in an atmosphere of undereposure. When you're rubbing shoulders month after month with an older mother or father, the warm, loving relationship which should exist between parents and grown children often deteriorates into one of grudging toleration.

A woman has written me that in a weak moment following marriage she and her husband invited her widowed mother to come live with them. "That was 20 years ago," she says. "All these years our family life has been subtly disrupted, for Mother is a woman with very definite ideas."

"She didn't mean to, but she couldn't keep from imposing her views on us. She was kind to our two sons, but they were always a little frightened of her and sensed that they didn't quite meet her standards. And we could never go anywhere without taking her along. We didn't mind this but she always wanted to go home before anyone else was ready."

Forecast For Saturday

The Gemini woman has a knock at the wrong time. You want to impress this woman; you better have a sense of humor. Otherwise, you could wind up being a candidate for the funny farm. The Gemini woman is merciful, nervous, and intelligent; a tossy, can make one's head swim with a toss of her head and a rolling of her eyes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Short trip is on agenda. You are called upon to complete a mission. Another Aries — and a Libra — could be picture. Ideas are tossed about, and you are free to choose to set policy. Enjoy it! Don't permit temporary pressure to cause tension.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You receive a tip concerning money markets. Another Aries comes from bargain at supermarket to sophisticated information related to stock market. Be alert, aware and ready to pounce on legitimate opportunity as it is in picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Cycle is high; you are at right place at right time. Your intuition is honed to razor-sharpness. You detect what has been hidden. A friend proves the value of your unique, original area. There is likely to be fulfillment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A closed-door meeting could play significant role in your life. Key is to be versatile, willing to diversify. Sagittarius: Gemini could figure prominently. You are free to expand horizons. Do so without spreading your efforts in too many directions.

PISCES (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Work associates, basic cues from others come into focus. Aries, Libra persons are likely to be in picture. You may find that one era is finished and another is getting started, including new personnel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Accent is on creative change, special relationships and specific understandings involving young persons. Leo is in picture and so, too, is another Aquarian. Imprint your own style, hear sound of your own voice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Be selective. Knowledgeable about details. Take nothing for granted. Obtain precise agreement in writing form. Your intuition is sharply honed. Trust it!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Empathy is on now. You are free to pounce to intellectual curiosity. Ask questions. You could contact one who is delighted — and flattered — to provide answers. Be ready for significant change that could involve travel.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Accent is on what has occurred — and potential for future. You have choice now of hanging

—Staying Ahead—

Economists See Signs Of Inflation Slowdown

By JANE BRYANT QUINN
New York — After months of baleful warnings, creeping unemployment, and skittish business conditions, we've finally come up against it: a bad recession has taken hold. The immediate outlook is for more and larger payoffs, heavy order cancellations, steep production, poor retail sales, and collapsing profits. It will go on for months.

Jane Bryant Quinn

of Americans who manage to remain employed, the picture is considerably brighter.

Labor is due catch-up wage increases, to put workers even with inflation. But the contracts won't be nearly as costly as the coal settlement, which many labor experts consider an anomaly rather than a pattern setter. As inflation slows, our real incomes will once again begin to rise. By late spring, we should be remembering what it feels like to have more purchasing power in our pockets. Sentiment should improve, followed by a sluggish business upturn later in the year. If all this works out as forecast, even the stock market should be heading up.

Without Government Action

Please notice that all this happens without the government doing much more than it has already. Tight money brought this recession on, and the new easier-money stance will eventually assuage it (that, and the big budget deficit that recession graciously provides).

The risk is that the government won't let it go at that. Both Congress and the President will be proposing new programs to fight recession — from tax cuts, to spending bills, to a big jump in the money supply. These won't stop our spin downward; it's too late for that. But, depending on their magnitude, they could mean that recovery will be accompanied by a new and even more malevolent bout with inflation.

That, however, is looking too far ahead. For now, I can say only that the outlook is for a slowing in the price index, and I, for one, am grateful.

(c) 1974, The Washington Post Company

Ford recently cut the Pinto prices by $150, bringing the cost of that popular car to within 3% of last year's levels. (Other cars are an average of 10% higher.) "Businessmen are finally beginning to realize that they can't count on passing higher prices on," Olsen observes.

Mortgage money will be cheaper and more plentiful by next spring, but that in itself may not be enough to move new houses. Kellner thinks builders will have to cut prices to bring the buyers back. Clothing prices are probably at their peaks (in fact, a lot of apparel lines are showing up in pre-Christmas sales). And gasoline has been declining for four months.

If Mother Nature gives us sun and rain at the right times next spring, even food prices might settle down.

No Free Lunch

But there's no such thing as a free lunch. Slowed inflation will be achieved over the bodies of the unemployed, and the bulk of businesses that went broke. These won't stop our spin downward; it's too late for that. But, depending on their magnitude, they could mean that recovery will be accompanied by a new and even more malevolent bout with inflation.

Meanwhile, a prime-rate cut which some Wall Streeters had been hoping for from New York's First National City Bank failed to materialize Friday morning.

Instead, the bank modified its formula for determining the key rate on loans to large corporations and held it unchanged at 10 per cent for the coming week.

That, however, is looking too far ahead. For now, I can say only that the outlook is for a slowing in the price index, and I, for one, am grateful.

There's faint hope that Detroit might be getting the message.

Break For Customers

Where prices aren't falling, the rise is at least being stemmed. Even the retail customer is getting a break: the nonfood segment of the October Consumer Price Index was one-half the average of the previous nine months.

There's faint hope that Detroit might be getting the message.

By The Associated Press

State government's top planner says it is time for the Legislature to make some fundamental decisions on land use planning.

W. Don Nelson said he expects a federal effort of some kind to "force states to accept the responsibility of some type of land use planning."

And states like Nebraska, which have thus far drifted with the subject, could find themselves required to comply with a not-particularly attractive national enactment, he said.

Nelson, head of the state office of planning and programming, is not an advocate of state government jumping deep into a supervisory role.

No matter what kind of scheme you have, Nelson said, "80 to 85 per cent of all decisions will be made locally."

Only after the state's role is determined, Nelson said, can procedural questions be settled—such as, in what state agency should land use control and responsibility be placed?

Nelson said the impelling need for land use legislation in Nebraska is to protect or save prime agricultural land for agricultural uses. Expanding urbanization threatens to consume agricultural real estate with the loss to society being greater than the gains made by individuals, he said.

Nelson said he finds it curious that some farmers and ranchers who stand to gain protection from land use legislation, have been among the most severe critics of any restrictive arrangement.

Nelson said they fear limitations a land-use law could impose, without seeing any benefits.

Nelson said he wouldn't want state government to become "some kind of super board of zoning appeals" for all problems.

State activity might well be limited to passing land use judgments where there are either public or private proposals for developments in flood plains, for large rural residential or commercial subdivisions which have regional impact, on power plant locations, regional airports, major highway interchanges, and other comparable situations, Nelson said.

In addition to protection of agricultural land, Nelson sees a state land-use policy as attractive in making "adequate provisions for outdoor recreation facilities."

State government's top planner says it is time for the Legislature to make some fundamental decisions on land use planning.

W. Don Nelson said he expects a federal effort of some kind to "force states to accept the responsibility of some type of land use planning."

And states like Nebraska, which have thus far drifted with the subject, could find themselves required to comply with a not-particularly attractive national enactment, he said.

Nelson, head of the state office of planning and programming, is not an advocate of state government jumping deep into a supervisory role.

No matter what kind of scheme you have, Nelson said, "80 to 85 per cent of all decisions will be made locally."

Only after the state's role is determined, Nelson said, can procedural questions be settled—such as, in what state agency should land use control and responsibility be placed?

Nelson said the impelling need for land use legislation in Nebraska is to protect or save prime agricultural land for agricultural uses. Expanding urbanization threatens to consume agricultural real estate with the loss to society being greater than the gains made by individuals, he said.

Nelson said he finds it curious that some farmers and ranchers who stand to gain protection from land use legislation, have been among the most severe critics of any restrictive arrangement.

Economists See Signs Of Inflation Slowdown

By JANE BRYANT QUINN
New York — After months of baleful warnings, creeping unemployment, and skittish business conditions, we've finally come up against it: a bad recession has taken hold. The immediate outlook is for more and larger payoffs, heavy order cancellations, steep production, poor retail sales, and collapsing profits. It will go on for months.

I find all this pretty chilling, but to economists it's a great relief. "For the first time since this mess began I see signs for hope," says Irwin Kellner, vice president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust. "People have to get this scared in order to bring inflation down." Lein Olsen, senior vice president and economist of First National City Bank, agrees. "There's been a marked decline in inflationary expectation," he says.

As Kellner sees it, businesses, who earlier this year thought the recession would be mild, now realize they're facing a deep, steep plunge with unneeded labor and inventories on hand. So they're laying off workers at a great rate, and finally getting nervous about raising prices.

The year-long fall in the cost of new industrial commodities is now being matched by price drops in some lines of intermediate and finished goods.

Break For Customers

Where prices aren't falling, the rise is at least being stemmed. Even the retail customer is getting a break: the nonfood segment of the October Consumer Price Index was one-half the average of the previous nine months.

There's faint hope that Detroit might be getting the message.

Jane
Bryant
Quinn

Ford recently cut the Pinto prices by $150, bringing the cost of that popular car to within 3% of last year's levels. (Other cars are an average of 10% higher.) "Businessmen are finally beginning to realize that they can't count on passing higher prices on," Olsen observes.

Mortgage money will be cheaper and more plentiful by next spring, but that in itself may not be enough to move new houses. Kellner thinks builders will have to cut prices to bring the buyers back. Clothing prices are probably at their peaks (in fact, a lot of apparel lines are showing up in pre-Christmas sales). And gasoline has been declining for four months.

If Mother Nature gives us sun and rain at the right times next spring, even food prices might settle down.

No Free Lunch

But there's no such thing as a free lunch. Slowed inflation will be achieved over the bodies of the unemployed, and the bulk of businesses that went broke. These won't stop our spin downward; it's too late for that. But, depending on their magnitude, they could mean that recovery will be accompanied by a new and even more malevolent bout with inflation.

That, however, is looking too far ahead. For now, I can say only that the outlook is for a slowing in the price index, and I, for one, am grateful.

State Planner Says It's Time To Begin Land Use Planning

Stock Market Session Dull; Volume Low

New York (AP) — The stock market played out the Wall Street equivalent of a scoreless Friday, with many investors off on a four-day Thanksgiving weekend.

Trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange equaled the year's previous low of 7.40 million shares on July 5 — which, by more than coincidence, was also a Friday session sandwiched between a holiday and a weekend.

The last time a single session produced less activity was on Oct. 25, 1971, when the total was 7.35 million shares.

If all this works out as forecast, even the stock market should be heading up.

Without Government Action

Please notice that all this happens without the government doing much more than it has already. Tight money brought this recession on, and the new easier-money stance will eventually assuage it (that, and the big budget deficit that recession graciously provides).

The risk is that the government won't let it go at that. Both Congress and the President will be proposing new programs to fight recession — from tax cuts, to spending bills, to a big jump in the money supply. These won't stop our spin downward; it's too late for that. But, depending on their magnitude, they could mean that recovery will be accompanied by a new and even more malevolent bout with inflation.

Analysts noted a general tendency to hold back on commitments pending the results of next Monday's ratification vote by striking mine workers on a new contract with the coal industry.

Meanwhile, a prime-rate cut which some Wall Streeters had been hoping for from New York's First National City Bank failed to materialize Friday morning.

Instead, the bank modified its formula for determining the key rate on loans to large corporations and held it unchanged at 10 per cent for the coming week.

Chicago (AP) — Soybean futures advanced the limit of 20 cents a bushel again on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday.

It was the third straight session that soybeans had moved to the allowable limit. On Wednesday, however, beans closed a shade under the limit after touching a high point earlier.

Strong gains were posted in soybean meal and oil, wheat, corn and oats. One oats option, the nearby December, advanced the 6 cents limit. Iced broilers closed steady to 1/2 cent a pound lower.

Omaha (AP) — Butcher hogs finished what might be called a great week on the Omaha livestock market Friday.

Barrows and gilts weighing in from 200-260 pounds trended $1.00-$1.25, instances $1.50 higher; while heavier weights were $1.50-$2.00 higher, some as much as $2.50 over the Wednesday trade.

Part of the reason for the jump was the small supply, with only 350 head on the runs.

The butcher top was $40.50.

Sows traded 25-to-50 cents higher, cashing tickets from $3.50-$4.00.

All told, hogs ended the week with gains of $1.50-$2.00, most of the upsurge on weights over 260-pounds.

As is normal for a Friday, the slaughter cattle run was slight, with the overwhelming number of animals on the runs brought in for Friday's feeder auction.

There were a few slaughter steer and heifer sales, and they were termed strong. Cows tended strong to 50-cents higher.

The bulk of Friday's sheep supply went direct to dealers, and there was no test of the trade.

Omaha (AP) — Feeder cattle

Police Issue 10 Citations For Barking, Loose Dogs

By LYNN ZERSCHLING

Star Staff Writer

Since the city's tougher dog control law went into effect last week, the Police Department has issued ten citations to dog owners for violations, Police Chief Joe Carroll said Friday.

Carroll said three tickets were issued for barking dogs and seven tickets were issued for dogs running at large. The police started enforcing the law Nov. 21 and have received 58 complaints.

Carroll's report was given to members of a City-Council created Dog and Cat Commission, which met for the first time Friday to discuss further animal control measures.

Fruitless Meetings

The council created the panel after several fruitless meetings with members of the Humane Society Board.

City Councilman Dick Baker, who proposed the pet committee, said, "This is not a hatchet committee to get the Humane Society." Baker said the committee may recommend that the city increase its donation to the Humane Society from the $25,000 budgeted this year.

New commission members said enforcement of animal control laws will not solve the overall problem of animal control.

Ed Schwartzkopf, representing the Humane Society Board, questioned the council's action in adopting the new dog control law, which was patterned after an Omaha law. Schwartzkopf said he thought Lincoln should see how Omaha's laws worked before adopting it here.

Citations Authorized

The ordinance authorizes police officers to issue citations to dog owners for unlicensed dogs and if the dogs are running at large or barking. It will be the Humane Society's responsibility to pick up the animals.

Baker set Jan. 15 for a report from various members on:

- incentives to encourage people to license their pets,
- neutering programs being used in other communities, and
- reviewing present city ordinances, such as the one which limits people to three dogs per household.

Ed Smith, from the Cornhusker Kennel Club, said that many people who breed and show dogs do not license their animals because they have more than three pets.

Members of the group include:

Sikyta, Baker, Smith, Bill Dick representing the Lincoln Cat Fanciers, Dr. Ralph Ebers representing local veterinarians, City Finance Director Jim Mallon, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, County Commissioner Jan Gauger, Dr. Ed Lyman of the City-County Health Department, Dana Roper from the City Law Department, Tom Ekval from the Community Development Department, Schwartzkopf and Chief Carroll.

County Officials Set Lincoln Meet

For the first time in 80 years, the Nebraska Association of County Officials will hold its annual meeting in Lincoln.

Some 600 Nebraska county officials are expected to invade the city beginning Tuesday for the three-day meet which officially opens on Wednesday.

Stanley Smoot of Utah, president of the National Association of County Officials (NACO), and Bernard Hillenbrand, executive director of NACO, will be guest speakers at the sessions.

On Wednesday's agenda are addresses by Edward T. Weaver, executive director of the American Public Welfare Association, and Eugene H. Brandt, president of the Proposed legislation on which the legislative committee, which meets on Tuesday prior to the convention, includes several welfare proposals, including a proposal to repeat the statute that requires 20% of the medical costs for welfare recipients to be borne by the counties.

Thursday's agenda includes panel discussions on rural road right-of-way problems and corrective legislation and an address by Gov. J. James Exon.

Reports from the state senators chairing the Agriculture, Committee Government, Military Affairs and Veterans, and Judiciary Committees will be heard on the closing sessions Friday.

Groups which will hold meetings in conjunction with the convention are the commissioners and supervisors, county clerks and registers of deeds; county treasurer; clerks of the district courts; county highway superintendents, engineers and surveyors; welfare directors; county veterans' service officers; assessors, and Weed Control Board.

Last week J St. property owners said they favored the removal of all parking along the street, which totals about 80 spaces. However, another DAC task force on parking urged that no more spaced be removed from the streets downtown until the parking shortage is eased.

DAC has budgeted $5,000 for initial promotional purposes.

In other business Selmer Solheim, chairman of the J St. Task Force, reported that the group has agreed on the width of a median proposed for J St. from 10th to 14th. Solheim said the

Explosions, Fire Rip Texas Chemical Plant

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Several explosions and a fire ripped through a Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. chemical plant here Friday night, causing an undetermined number of injuries.

A spokesman for St. Elizabeth Hospital, who first had said "quite a number of fatalities" had been brought in, later would only say that eight persons were in the hospital. Their conditions were not immediately known and it was still unclear if there were fatalities.

News reports indicated that the explosion occurred at least four more within the hour.

A Goodyear spokesman said approximately 50 people were in the plant at the time of the explosion. Nearly 150 employees work at the plant during most shifts, but only skeleton crews were on duty Friday night because of the holidays.

The spokesman said the plant manufactures "synthetic rubber" and occupies about 50 acres.

He said he believed the explosion occurred in the isoprene unit. Isoprene is a volatile feedstock used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

Eyewitnesses said several storage tanks in the area were ablaze. The flames could be seen as far as five miles. The explosion rocked and shattered windows as far away as five miles.

The spokesman declined to identify the chemicals.

'Indians' Good Story, Poor Job

By BILL WALLIS

Arthur Kopit's "Indians" is the story of a man caught in a distorted time-space continuum. His name is William F. Cody, better known to most of us as Buffalo Bill.

The play is also, for all its expressionist elements, the most painfully accurate account of the tragedy of the American Indian in American theatre.

It covers the period 1850-1900 from two basic points of view: Buffalo Bill witnesses and participates in the destruction of the plains Indian populace and culture; and various chiefs voice their memories and passionate visions as their people fade from existence.

But it is primarily a voyage into the personality and deeds of Buffalo Bill. This is overlaid with a modern vision of the effect of what history tells us happened. The Lincoln Community Playhouse audience witnessed a flashback from Cody at his commercial greatest.

As Buffalo Bill, who didn't realize (couldn't have realized, he argues) that his name was used to disguise exploitation and savagery, Jack Frost did not project the passion and humanity which must justify the respect shown to him by Indian and white alike.

The ebullient Ned Buntline, the rude, engaging Wild Bill Hickok, the snake-like Billy the Kid are all missing. Not only must these characters come to life before us, they must be much bigger than life to satisfy the requirements of the expressionist drama. These fail.

The climax and fulfillment of "Indians" should occur in the audience, not the players. (No essential change should occur in the characters of this performance.) We are forced to re-examine our values in the context of American history, where our democracy's inhumanity was never more apparent, or haunting.

The production does not haunt because the circus-like, vaudevillian atmosphere of Cody's life is never successfully created on stage in the setting or the characters.

Tipoff: 7:35 p.m., NU Coliseum.

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

It's inevitable in Jerry Fort's case. There's really no way he can help but know he can make Big Eight basketball history in two years.

"No, I'm really not worried about it at all. I'm really more interested in being on a team that wins a title rather than setting any records," said Nebraska's 6-3 junior guard. "I'm just out to play games as good as I can."

Nevertheless, it's Fort's offensive proficiency that is a key ingredient in this year's NU attack. That attack opens its season

Saturday at 7:35 p.m. in the ancient NU Coliseum, which is expected to be in its final year as the Huskers' home.

The opponent will be South Dakota State, a member of the North Central Conference.

Fort, however, has a chance to become the first player in Big Eight history to lead one team in scoring four consecutive years. He took honors two years ago as a freshman with a 14.5 point-per-game average and last year earned all Big Eight laurels as a sophomore while scoring at an 18.0 clip.

That, however, has not been a primary objective for the Chicago native.

"I've really never gone out and thought about scoring a lot," he admits. "I never really think about leading the team in scoring. I sure didn't think about that when I came here as a freshman."

"I think I've always been a fairly good shooter, but this year, I think the team has a lot better shooters," he explained.

"We've shot a lot better in practice. Of course, doing it in practice and in a game are two different things, but I'm sure if we can hit on 50% of our shots then we'll win most games."

Nebraska has captured all seven series games with the Jackrabbits, including the last meeting, a 64-52 verdict in the opening game in 1957 at Lincoln.

Both teams are coming off seasons that can be improved. Nebraska finished with a 14-12 mark, including a 7-7 Big Eight slate good for fourth place. The Jackrabbits finished with a 14-12 overall.

Can winning "most games" give Nebraska its first Big Eight title since the 1948-49 season?

"I think we have the potential to win the title within the next two years," he optimistically predicted. "I think we have as good players as any team in the league. But we have to catch fire like Kansas did and start getting a winning streak like they did."

Opening with South Dakota State, if past history is any indication, may be a pleasant event for NU coach Joe Cipriano as he begins his 12th year at the NU helm.

Nebraska has captured all seven series games with the Jackrabbits, including the last meeting, a 64-52 verdict in the opening game in 1957 at Lincoln.

Both teams are coming off seasons that can be improved. Nebraska finished with a 14-12 mark, including a 7-7 Big Eight slate good for fourth place. The Jackrabbits finished with a 14-12 overall.

First-year SDS coach Gene Zulk, a former Jackrabbit assistant, is in the midst of a rebuilding year. He only has four lettermen, but he has the first seven-footer in NCC history.

Brian Shanks, a 7-0 freshman center who will start, was named to the nation's top 20 by the Sporting News magazine and undoubtedly will provide a stern test to the NU defenders.

Another sidelight to the NU opener is the presence of George Schroeder, who played with Nebraska's Steve Erwin in Laurel High School. Schroeder, now with the Jackrabbits, is a 4-4 junior forward who averaged 10.1 points-per-game one year ago.

Successful Starts

Nebraska has won its last nine season's openers, which brings the Huskers' opener mark to 47-30. The last time NU dropped an opener was in 1964 when Wyoming captured a 94-68 verdict in Laramie.

The Huskers, behind 24 points from Fort, topped Wyoming, 70-62, at the NU Coliseum in last year's opener.

Cipriano's Record

Cipriano, who already has coached the Huskers longer than any other previous mentor in the 77-year history of NU basketball, has 151 wins and 124 losses as Husker boss. That's 65 wins more than any previous NU coach. His overall mark is 194-174.

Happiest Texas Club? Bowl-Bound Baylor!

Austin, Tex. (AP) — The party was over after 54 seconds Friday in a 32-3 Texas blitz of shocked eighth-ranked Texas A&M, but it triggered a wild celebration 90 miles to the north at Waco as Baylor's impossible Cotton Bowl dream came through.

"We went absolutely crazy after the first two touchdowns," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff, whose team will host Penn State New Year's Day for the Bears' maiden journey to the 38-year-old classic.

The Texas victory clinched at a Southwest Conference title tie for the Bears—the first such honor for the Baptist school in 50 years. Baylor can win the crown outright by defeating Rice Saturday in Waco.

Baylor is 5-1 in SLC play and Texas and the Aggies finished 5-2.

Teaff was asked by telephone if this was the happiest day of his life and he said: "No, it isn't. Tomorrow could be, if we beat Rice. Tying for the title and playing Penn State in the Cotton Bowl won't mean near as much to us if we aren't the champions, if we have to share it with anybody."

The Gator Bowl-bound Longhorns scored two touchdowns in a 12-second span of the game's opening minute, thanks to fumbles by the Aggies, who have not beaten Texas in Memorial Stadium in 18 years.

Texas closed out the scoring in the second half on a 15-yard touchdown run by Akins.

Both A&M and Texas have 8-3 records, but the Longhorns will meet Auburn Dec. 30 in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

A&M halfback Bubba Bean, his fingers numb in the 40-degree cold with a chill factor of 18 degrees, fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and Travis Roach recovered.

Raymond Clayborn zipped 18 yards for a touchdown and 12 seconds later the 17th-ranked Horns were on the board again, much to the disbelief of a national television audience and a sellout crowd of 77,584 in Memorial Stadium.

Texas end Lionel Johnson fielded a fumble by A&M's Bucky Sams and, without breaking stride, rumbled 28 yards for a touchdown.

The game was just 54 seconds old when the Aggies trailed 14-0.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal said, "that was unbelievable" when asked if A&M lost the game in the first minute of play.

"We took the wind, hoping that would happen," Royal said. "Scoring two touchdowns in 54 seconds was unbelievable."

Asked what caused the fumbling, A&M Coach Emory Bellard said: "If I knew, I'd bottle it up and sell it. We just took a good old country licking."

The Aggies fumbled a third time and Billy Schott kicked a 33-yard field goal for a 17-0 Texas lead in the first period.

Texas, which now has won 34 consecutive games at home, rolled to a 28-3 halftime lead on an 11-yard touchdown run by quarterback Marty Akins and a 41-yard field goal into the stout northerly wind by Mike Dean.

Texas closed out the scoring in the second half on a 15-yard touchdown run by Akins.

Both A&M and Texas have 8-3 records, but the Longhorns will meet Auburn Dec. 30 in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

Peter Krill, president of the Gator Bowl said, "Texas has been to 21 bowl games and never to the Gator. We are glad you are finally coming."

Royal said: "We are delighted to be coming."

Texas' defense, led by Johnson, Roach and tackle Doug English, smothered the Aggie offense, allowing only a 5-yard first quarter field goal by Randy Haddox. A&M's deepest penetration was to the Longhorn three-yard line in the third quarter.

Freshman fullback Earl Campbell had his greatest day of the season with 127 yards on 28 carries.

Akins, who sprained both ankles during the game, said: "They are vulnerable up the middle and they showed it today. We were able to drive them into the wind and they weren't."

Royal said of Texas' fast start, "that's something you dream about, that just happens in dreams. It doesn't happen in real life."

Burdock, the last of the Irish heavyweight champs and a member of Boxing's Hall of Fame, had 85 professional bouts during his 17-year career, winning 51 including 26 by knockout. A 10-1 underdog when he decided Baer for the heavyweight title on June 22, 1937.

He is survived by his wife, Mae, four brothers, two sisters, three children and six grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Tuesday, Dec. 3 at Cliffside Park, N.J.

Born on Dec. 6, 1905, in New York City of Irish-American parents, Burdock's rise to the heavyweight championship is regarded as one of the most dramatic comeback stories in modern ring annals. A promising young light-heavyweight who had lost to Tommy Loughran for the light-heavy title, his career was almost ruined in 1933 when he broke his hand in a bout with Abe Feldman at Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

Rich purrs that he had invested in the stock market and which had enabled him to buy a taxicab company were eaten up by the depression, and unable to support himself, he was forced to go on relief and apply for charity from the township of North Bergen. He became "Case 2796" and was allotted $17 a week.

It was in June of 1934 while he was working on the railroad, loading ties, that his old manager, Joe Gould, came to his rescue. Once convinced that Burdock's hand had healed properly, Gould got him a fight that was to launch his ring comeback.

The fight was against a highly-touted heavyweight named Corn Griffin, and Burdock gave Griffin such a beating that the fight was stopped in the third round. Next came a 10-round decision over John Henry Lewis at Madison Square Garden and then Burdock registered another stunning upset by defeating top-ranking heavyweight contender Art Lasky in the Garden on March 22, 1935.

Burdock finally got his big chance at the Garden Bowl on Long Island City on June 13, 1935, when he was matched against Baer for the title. Baer, 26, was considered a far superior talent in terms of size and ability, but Burdock, then 29, outdistanced Baer in 15 rounds to win the title.

The victory earned Burdock the nickname "Cinderella Man," and it proclaimed his ability to lift himself from relief to royalty in less than a year.

At no time during the two years Burdock wore the crown was he rated by experts or fans on a par with either Louis or ex-champ Max Schmeling. But Mike Jacobs, a shrewd promoter who used Louis as his No. 1 attraction to challenge the Garden corporation, saw some promotional value in the young Irishman and got Burdock out of his contract with the Garden.

'Talented' Jayhawks Seeking New Leader

Owens has tried to fill the void with a veteran player, but he doesn't want to saddle Greenlee with more ball-handling responsibility because that would reduce the number of shots he would get. "He's such a fine shooter," the coach added.

Should Greenlee wind up the "quarterback," Owens would have to switch a lot of people around. One move would put Morningstar at the other guard, and mean the forward spots would be handled by Cook and either Donnie Von Moore or Tommie Fletcher. The young guards who have an opportunity to win the job Kivisto held last season are Rick Bussard, a transfer from Oliny Junior College where he was a teammate of Morningstar, Mark Fletcher, Clint Johnson and Milt Gibson.

"Bussard has more maturity and more stability, Fletcher is the best passer and has excellent vision, Johnson is the best overall athlete, and Gibson has extraordinary quickness and speed," Owens said. "They all have good equipment, but no one of them stands out above the others."

Owens plans to stick basically with a single pivot offense despite the presence of Knight and Suttle.

"Both of them are very close in competition, but both are better in the single post where they have more room to operate," Owens said.

"Suttle is playing the best I've ever seen him play and Knight has come on very strong," Owens said, adding the center spot "could be a very strong position." Right now, Suttle is No.

Even more remarkable was a feat achieved by the entire team.

Each of the six Waverly starters received all-state support from coaches throughout the state. Five Waverly girls were named as the best players the various coaches had seen in the 1974 season.

It's inevitable in Jerry Fort's case. There's really no way he can help but know he can make Big Eight basketball history in two years.

"No, I'm really not worried about it at all. I'm really more interested in being on a team that wins a title rather than setting any records," said Nebraska's 6-3 junior guard. "I'm just out to play games as good as I can."

Nevertheless, it's Fort's offensive proficiency that is a key ingredient in this year's NU attack. That attack opens its season

Saturday at 7:35 p.m. in the ancient NU Coliseum, which is expected to be in its final year as the Huskers' home.

The opponent will be South Dakota State, a member of the North Central Conference.

Fort, however, has a chance to become the first player in Big Eight history to lead one team in scoring four consecutive years. He took honors two years ago as a freshman with a 14.5 point-per-game average and last year earned all Big Eight laurels as a sophomore while scoring at an 18.0 clip.

That, however, has not been a primary objective for the Chicago native.

"I've really never gone out and thought about scoring a lot," he admits. "I never really think about leading the team in scoring. I sure didn't think about that when I came here as a freshman."

"I think I've always been a fairly good shooter, but this year, I think the team has a lot better shooters," he explained. "We've shot a lot better in practice. Of course, doing it in practice and in a game are two different things, but I'm sure if we can hit on 50% of our shots then we'll win most games."

Alabama's fullback Calvin Culliver (33) charges for a first down.

Tide Survives Auburn Scare

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Top-ranked Alabama muffed numerous opportunities to break open the game and had to survive a late rally by sixth-ranked Auburn Friday for a 17-13 victory over the War Eagles.

Alabama quarterback Richard Todd only completed two passes all afternoon, but one was 45-yard touchdown strike to Willie Shelby with 41 seconds left in the first period and Calvin Culliver scored what turned out to be the winning touchdown on a 13-yard run with 6:41 gone in the third period.

The unbeaten Crimson Tide, a 13-point favorite and hoping a victory against Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl will bring a second straight UPI national collegiate championship, dominated play throughout most of the game.

But Alabama threw away two scoring opportunities and Auburn closed within four points with 2:47 left in the game on a two-yard run by quarterback Phil Gargis, after keeping its drive alive with a pass off a fake field goal attempt.

Alabama, winning its 43rd out of the last 44 regular season games, drove all the way to the Auburn 2 the first time it got the ball, but then lost that opportunity on a fumble.

The next time, the Tide appeared halted by a 15-yard clipping penalty but Todd found Shelby in the open for the 45-yard bomb that put the Tide ahead 7-0 just before the first period ended.

Alabama quickly got into scoring position again early in the second period when a bad snap from center and a short Auburn punt gave the Tide the ball at the Tigers' 14-yard line.

But they had to settle for a 36-yard field goal by Bucky Berrey for a 10-0 lead 1:56 after the second period began.

The Auburn offense came to life for the first time after the ensuing kickoff and the Tigers drove 71 yards with Cedrick McIntyre going the final yard to cut the gap to 10-7 with 6:54 left in the half.

Auburn recovered a fumble at the Alabama 40 and drove to the Tide three yard line, but Gargis overthrew his receiver in the end zone and a field goal attempt

'Talented' Jayhawks Seeking

Fourth Of A Series

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

It may be a few games before Kansas basketball coach Ted Owens decides on the "quarterback" to replace graduated Tom Kivisto, but there's no question the Jayhawks have the most talented squad in the Big Eight Conference.

Owens probably will open with an all-veteran lineup Saturday night when the Kansans make their debut in Allen Fieldhouse in Lawrence, Kan., against Northeast Missouri State.

He's hopeful, however, that one of four newcomers develop enough to be able to replace Kivisto, but he doesn't want to use any one of them until he's certain they're ready to take over the play-making duties.

Kansas, 23-7 overall last year and Big Eight and Midwest Regional champion, has four starters and the top five scorers from that team. All the veterans have shown improvement in pre-season practice, Owens said recently.

These include Danny Knight, 6-10 pivotman who topped all scorers with a 12.4 point a game average in the balanced Jayhawk attack, Dale Greenlee, 6-2 guard (11.8), Norman Cook, 6-8 sophomore forward (11.4), Roger Morningstar, 6-6 forward (12.3) who will be at guard tonight, and Rick Suttle, 6-10 pivotman (11.3).

"We knew when we started practice that the biggest problem we had was replacing Kivisto," Owens said. "He furnished the chemistry that brought it all together."

Owens has tried to fill the void with a veteran player, but he doesn't want to saddle Greenlee with more ball-handling responsibility because that would reduce the number of shots he would get. "He's such a fine shooter," the coach added.

Should Greenlee wind up the "quarterback," Owens would have to switch a lot of people around. One move would put Morningstar at the other guard, and mean the forward spots would be handled by Cook and either Donnie Von Moore or Tommie Smith.

The young guards who have an opportunity to win the job Kivisto held last season are Rick Bussard, a transfer from Olney Junior College where he was a teammate of Morningstar, Mark Fletcher, Clint Johnson and Milt Gibson.

"Bussard has more maturity and more stability, Fletcher is the best passer and has excellent vision, Johnson is the best overall athlete, and Gibson has extraordinary quickness and speed," Owens said. "They all have good equipment, but no one of them stands out above the others."

Owens plans to stick basically with a single pivot offense despite the presence of Knight and Suttle.

Waverly's complete domination over its opponents the last three years has carried over to the first Sunday Journal and Star All-State Volleyball Team.

Coach Karen Stoner's Viqueens placed three girls on the six-member Class B team as suggested by the state's coaches.

Karen Mortensen, Lucy Axberg and LuAnn Hestermann led the Waverly onslaught at the state tournament and likewise head the list of all-stars.

The three were instrumental in building Waverly's unbeaten streak to 68 games and the Class B championship game over Broken Bow.

Even more remarkable was a feat achieved by the entire team. Each of the six Waverly starters received all-state support from coaches throughout the state. Five Waverly girls were named as the best players the various coaches had seen in the 1974 season.

Erin Dodge, Diane Oehlerking and Cindy Wulf got strong support, with Dodge and Oehlerking gathering enough votes for honorable mention status.

Besides the Waverly trio, East High's Sue Luedtke and Georgette Caddy in Class A and Madison's Rita Sunderman in Class C also helped guide their respective teams to state titles.

All-State Club

According to East High coach Myron Oehlerking, Luedtke was an extremely effective spiker and the team's leading server while Caddy was "probably the key to the team's defense."

Concordia Falls To Kan. Wes.

SEWARD, Neb. (AP)—Kansas Wesleyan of Salina broke up a 76-76 tie with 10 minutes left to defeat Concordia of Nebraska 106-93 Friday night.

Tom Teeter scored 17 for Wesleyan and Norman Roth had 24 to lead the Bulldogs.

Wesleyan—Rietzke 17, Teeter 17, C. Green 14, Roe 10, Murrell 9, Bartley 8, D. Green 8, Foster 7, Doll 6, Wooley 4, Brinkman, Schwartzen 2.

Halftime: Wesleyan 59, Concordia 48

Sunderman also played an important part in her team's success, according to coach Bob McCormick. "I feel that Rita was one of the biggest factors in our winning the Class C title," he said. "She is excellent at the net, both blocking and spiking and she is a very unselfish, hard-working athlete."

Southeast Consolidated's Sally Howard was the overall leader in votes received heading the Class C team.

Beth Cantrell of Callaway (Class D), Angie Sughrue of Holdrege (Class B) and Leta Herrington of Beatrice (Class A) were the other top class finishers.

named to the nation's top 20 by the Sporting News magazine and undoubtedly will provide a stern test to the NU defenders.

Another sidelight to the NU opener is the presence of George Schroeder, who played with Nebraska's Steve Erwin at Laurel High School. Schroeder, now with the Jackrabbits, is a 6-4 junior forward who averaged 10.1 points-per-game one year ago.

Successful Starts

Nebraska has won its last nine season's openers, which brings the Huskers' opener mark to 47-30. The last time NU dropped an opener was in 1964 when Wyoming captured a 94-68 verdict in Laramie.

The Huskers, behind 24 points from Fort, topped Wyoming, 70-62, at the NU Coliseum in last year's opener.

Cipriano's Record

Cipriano, who already has coached the Huskers longer than any other previous mentor in the 77-year history of NU basketball, has 151 wins and 124 losses as Husker boss. That's 65 wins more than any previous NU coach. His overall mark is 194-174.

James Braddock

Ex-Champ Braddock Dies At 68

NORTH BERGEN, N.J. (UPI) — James J. Braddock, the one-time "Cinderella Man" whose defeat of Max Baer for the title in 1935 still ranks as the greatest upset in heavyweight championship history, died Friday of natural causes. He was 68.

Braddock, the last of the Irish heavyweight champs and a member of Boxing's Hall of Fame, had 85 professional bouts during his 17-year career, winning 51 including 26 by knockout. A 10-1 underdog when he decisioned Baer for the heavyweight title on June 13, 1935, Braddock lost his title to Joe Louis by a knockout on June 22, 1937.

He is survived by his wife, Mae, four brothers, two sisters, three children and six grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Tuesday, Dec. 3 at Cliffside Park, N.J.

Born on Dec. 6, 1905, in New York City of Irish-American parents, Braddock's rise to the heavyweight championship is regarded as one of the most dramatic comeback stories in modern ring annals. A promising young light-heavyweight who had lost to Tommy Loughran for the light-heavy title, his career was almost ruined in 1933 when he broke his hand in a bout with Abe Feldman at Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

Rich purses that he had invested in the stock market and which had enabled him to buy a taxicab company were eaten up by the depression, and unable to support himself, he was forced to go on relief and apply for charity from the township of North Bergen. He became "Case 2796" and was allotted $17 a week.

It was in June of 1934 while he was working on the railroad, loading ties, that his old manager, Joe Gould, came to his rescue. Once convinced that Braddock's hand had healed properly, Gould got him a fight that was to launch his ring comeback.

The fight was against a highly-touted heavyweight named Corn Griffin, and Braddock gave Griffin such a beating that the fight was stopped in the third round. Next came a 10-round decision over John Henry Lewis at Madison Square Garden and then Braddock registered another stunning upset by defeating top-ranking heavyweight contender Art Lasky in the Garden on March 22, 1935.

The Miami Hurricanes are looking to upset Florida Saturday, which has not won a game since it was invited to the Sugar Bowl three weeks ago.

Ed Sheridan, a 155-pound defensive back has been elected captain of the 1975 Princeton football team.

Alonzo Smith "Jake" Gaither, who never had a losing season in 23 years as Florida A&M football coach, has been chosen to receive the 1975 Walter Camp Award.

Missouri Governor Christopher S. Bond says, "I have to root for the Cardinals," in Sunday's game between St. Louis and the Kansas City Chiefs. "Even though I have season tickets for the Chiefs' games, I'll root for the Cardinals after their great showing this year."

Philadelphia Eagles Quarterback Roman Gabriel, with a bruised right elbow and defensive tackle Jerry Patton, a former Husker with a leg injury are questionable for this Sunday's game against Green Bay.

San Diego Chargers' owner Eugene Klein says no profit will be made by the NFL team in 1974. The exhibition games lost about $500,000 as a principal result of the player's strike. Home crowds in the 52,000-seat stadium in San Diego have ranged from a high of 44,706 to a low of 34,371.

Detroit Lions' owner William Clay Ford spiked speculation of an across-the-board house cleaning when he announced that Coach Rick Forzano will be retained for the 1975 season.

Three-time All-Pro center Forrest Blue of the San Francisco 49ers underwent surgery for a cheekbone fracture and will not play against the Cleveland Browns this Sunday.

The Philadelphia Eagles added free agent offensive tackle Herb Dobbins of San Diego State to their active roster and placed running back Tom Bailey on the injured reserve list.

BASKETBALL

Bob Love, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Dave Cowens are among the leading vote-getters for the NBA All-Star game at Phoenix on Jan. 14, 1975. Love has yet to play a game due to a contract dispute, while Jabbar and Cowens returned to action only last week after pre-season injuries.

Los Angeles Lakers star guard Gail Goodrich will be out from 10 days to two weeks with an ankle sprain and a slight ligament strain.

Top-ranked North Carolina State University's David Thompson, player of the year for the past two seasons, and Maryland's John Lucas are unanimous picks for the pre-season All-Atlantic Coast Conference basketball team. North Carolina Freshman Phil Ford is picked to be the league's top rookie of the year.

HORSE RACING

Trainer Clayton Faurot was suspended for 60 days by the Western Harness Racing Board of Stewards after a stimulant was discovered in one of his horses at Hollywood Park.

Melvin's Woe, the $300,000 1973 Little Brown Jug Winner, was reported missing from his stable at the Bonnie Brae Farms near Wellington, Ohio.

William Murray, owner of the farms, said he received a telephone call saying, "You'll never see your horse again."

Confederate Yankee won a 1 1/4 length victory in the $25,000-added Thanksgiving Day Handicap at Bay Meadows.

The Louisiana Racing Commission has authorized jockey Lane Suire to ride at Louisiana tracks despite his suspension in Illinois for "possession of an electrical goading device."

The Congress of the International Cycling Union has awarded the 1977 world championships to Venezuela.

Cowboys Triumph

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Ronnie Daniel, a high-stepping sophomore guard from Louisville, Ky., scored a career record 32 points as he led Oklahoma State to a 93-85 college basketball victory over Oklahoma City University Friday night.

The game was the season opener for both schools and was the second of an in-state twinbill. Tulsa defeated Oklahoma, 71-64, in the first contest.

Daniel, only 5-10, scored 21 of his points in the second half, almost single-handedly thwarting an Oklahoma City rally in the late going.

The Cowboys, down 49-43 at the half and by as much as 10 after intermission, pulled to within one with 5:55 left, but Daniels then hit seven straight points to give the Cowboys an 83-75 lead just over three minutes left.

Daniels' 32 points were the most scored by a Cowboy since Larry Hawk counted 32 in 1963 against Oklahoma.

Sooners Bid For Top Rating

By The Associated Press

The college football season winds up its regular phase Saturday with the University of Oklahoma making its final pitch for the national championship.

The No. 1-ranked Sooners are on probation and can't go to a bowl, so Saturday's clash with Oklahoma State will leave the nation's sports writers and sportscasters who select the national champion in The Associated Press poll with their final impression of the Sooners.

"We expect a tough battle . . . they're a good team,

Campbell Credits Line

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas fullback Earl Campbell nullified the Texas A&M Aggies and maintained a Memorial Stadium jinx that has given A&M only one win in Austin since 1924.

"The offensive line did it for me," the freshman said in a surprisingly restrained Longhorn dressing room after Texas had tacked up a 32-3 victory over the Aggies and maintained a

Memorial Stadium jinx that has given A&M only one win in Austin since 1924.

"They did a bunch of great blocking up front. I owe all that victory to them," Campbell said.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal

pinpointed the obvious early breaks as well as a Longhorn scoring drive into a cold, 20-mile-per-hour north wind as the big factors in the game.

"We just got unbelievable breaks at the start of the game, what was it . . . 14 points in 54 seconds? Good gracious. That is something you dream about.

"That's the only way we could beat an outstanding

A&M team by that score. They just gave us break after break."

Royal and his squad jubilantly accepted a bid to play Auburn in the Gator Bowl Dec. 30. And after that brief ceremony was over, quarterback Marty

Akins, who sprained both ankles during the game, proclaimed the whistling wind a major factor. Texas won the toss to start the game and took the wind.

"I think us driving into the wind (in the third period) was a turning point," said Akins. "We drove the ball into the wind and A&M didn't."

Peterson is optimistic about the Plainsmen's chances for a successful season. "I think we'll be a bit quicker than last year and we should have a better bench," he said. "With the return of Joekel (Steve), our shooting should be greatly improved. We feel Steve is one of the better kids in the state."

Peterson also voiced confidence in the other six returning lettermen. Larry Abel, Bob

Knollenberg and Tom Maupin return at the guard position

while 6-9 sophomore center

Blake Butler returns to fill the gap vacated by John Strain.

Gene Parks and Kim Veerhusen also return at forward for Peterson.

"Parks and Butler should help us a great deal inside," Peterson said. "Blake has really improved a lot. All he needs now is a little more experience."

Peterson is preparing for a run and gun style game against Kansas Wesleyan. "They're primarily a fast break team," he noted.

"They've got some outstanding material and a few junior college

transfers to help out."

Cowboys Triumph

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Ronnie Daniel, a high-stepping sophomore guard from Louisville, Ky., scored a career record 32 points as he led Oklahoma State to a 89-85 college basketball victory over Oklahoma City University Friday night.

The game was the season opener for both schools and was the second of an in-state twinbill. Tulsa defeated Oklahoma, 71-64, in the first contest.

Daniel, only 5-10, scored 21 of his points in the second half, almost single-handedly thwarting an Oklahoma City rally in the late going.

The Chiefs, down 49-43 at the half and by as much as 10 after intermission, pulled to within one with 5:55 left, but Daniels then hit seven straight points to give the Cowboys an 83-75 lead with just over three minutes left.

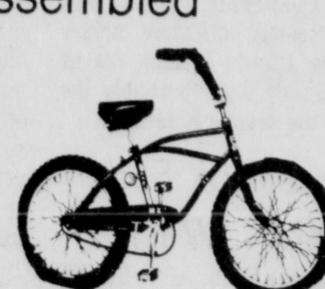

Daniels' 32 points were the most scored by a Cowboy since Larry Hawn counted 32 in 1963 against Oklahoma.

NWU To Host Kansans

If physical condition can be used as a barometer for success, Nebraska Wesleyan could be preparing for one of its best basketball seasons in years.

The Plainsmen will have the opportunity to find out Saturday night when coach Irv Peterson opens his 25th year at Ira Taylor Gym against Kansas Wesleyan University at 7:30 p.m. A preliminary freshman game will begin at 5:30 p.m.

"We're in real good physical condition," Peterson noted after several weeks of strenuous workouts. "Probably the best condition we've been in for years."

Being in good condition should help the Plainsmen offset KU's advantage of having three games under its belt.

The Saturday clash will be the first of a balanced 24-game schedule for NWU. This season's schedule includes newcomers Bethel, Kan., and Concordia, Minn. Also on the slate is a Dec. 11 jaunt to Chicago Loyola who just five days prior to the NWU game plays NCAA powerhouse UCLA.

Peterson is optimistic about the Plainsmen's chances for a successful season. "I think we'll be a bit quicker than last year and we should have a better bench," he said. "With the return of Joeckel (Steve), our shooting should be greatly improved. We feel Steve is one of the better kids in the state."

Peterson also voiced confidence in the other six returning lettermen. Larry Abel, Bob Knollenberg and Tom Maupin return at the guard position while 6-9 sophomore center Blake Butler returns to fill the gap vacated by John Strain.

"Parks and Butler should help us a great deal inside," Peterson said. "Blake has really improved a lot. All he needs now is a little more experience."

Peterson is preparing for a run and gun style game against Kansas Wesleyan. "They're primarily a fast break team," he noted. "They've got some outstanding material and a few junior college transfers to help out."

Peterson also expects the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference to be well balanced. "We don't play anybody with the exception of Loyola that I think we can't beat," Peterson said. "And we'll sure give it a try there too."

UNO Tops Northwestern

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The University of Nebraska at Omaha built an 82-69 lead over Northwestern College of Orange City, Iowa with 3:30 left and held on for a 87-83 win here Friday night.

UNO held a slim 39-37 lead at the half and broke a 57-57 tie with 10:42 left. The Mavericks were never headed after that.

Pat Roehrig led UNO with 26 points and Northwestern's Dave Johnson had 21.

The game was UNO's first of the season, while Northwestern's record slipped to 2-2.

Bellevue Tops Avila, 92-56

BELLEVUE, Neb. (AP)—Bellevue College jumped out to a 46-26 halftime lead over Avila College of Kansas City and widened the gap in the second half to come away with a 92-56 win Friday night.

Bellevue benefited from cold shooting by Avila, which shot 33 per cent from the field. Bellevue managed 43 per cent.

Greg Smith led a balanced Bellevue attack with 17 points. Hillary Howard had 14.

John Sher. had 12 for Avila. The win brings Bellevue's season record to 2-1.

Parents At Park School Develop Skills

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

"The idea," Pat Morgan said, "is to get parents to come in the front door." They do.

And next week, the parents will teach what they've learned by coming through the door of Park School, 714 F, to the children—255 of them.

Since mid-October, about 25 parents have been meeting twice a week in day and evening workshops at Park, developing their skills at ceramics.

All members of the 300-strong Park Parent Teachers Club, the parents have produced handiwork that spans a wall: Santa, of course, rubbing shoulders with Frosty the Snowman and your favorite Dwarf of the famous Seven. Manger scene figurines dot the tables, by carolers and towering Christmas trees, under lamps and beside mugs made for Christmas ornaments.

The parents have learned, Mrs. Morgan said, they can make items for $6 that are just as fancy as those with $45 price tags on store shelves: That's aside from the goal to earn the techniques to help smaller hands make their own Christmas ornaments.

The kids "get to choose which one they want" and decorate them however they like, said Mrs. Morgan, club treasurer and past president. Parents provide the "advice," and foot the bill for materials, paint and spray in the program begun last year.

Once parents get through Park's front door and meet the principal, they find "they're not afraid of the school," said Mrs. Morgan, 144 A. She can feel at home where her two children spend a big part of their day, and the parents can share in all the students' experiences.

"We also get them (parents) up in the classroom, and this helps the teachers with an extra pair of hands." Besides, Mrs. Morgan laughed, "It gets them out of the house. They enjoy it."

The work with the Park students cuts across Head Start and Follow Through programs, the orthopedically and visually handicapped, and Title I programs for disadvantaged students.

Most important, Mrs. Morgan said, "The kids can go home with something they've created themselves, with some help" at the firing kiln, for example. And decorating a piece of ceramic is a "useful" project, she said. "They can use it next year."

PTA Urges Immediate Compliance With Privacy Act

The National PTA is urging all school boards to comply immediately with the 1974 Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act intended to protect student records and allow parents to challenge the contents.

Schools that fail to comply with the federal law that went into effect Nov. 19 will lose any federal funds they receive.

National PTA officials have called on local PTAs to work with local school boards "to set up procedures for carrying out the mandate of the new law" and to monitor its implementation and effectiveness in local schools.

But even the sponsor of the act, Sen. James Buckley, R-Con.-N.Y., has admitted the law's requirements are unclear and are being misinterpreted. The U.S. Office of Education has said it doesn't know how to write guidelines for the act. Buckley and Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., are considering offering clarifying amendments.

Meanwhile nationally, school boards, college officials and education organizations are asking for public hearings on the act, which sailed through Congress to quick passage without them. And although schools are allowed a 45-day implementation delay under the act's provisions, may have reportedly culled information from student files and have shredded masses of possibly objectionable or libelous materials.

Educators have expressed concern about their pledges to keep confidential any letters of recommendation, placement information and psychiatric records contained in student files. And they are groaning about having to contact each author of each letter of recommendation, for example, to get permission to remove its confidential status, or to destroy it.

There is also concern that without guarantee of confidentiality, writers of letters of recommendation will make only "goody-two-shoes" statements.

Meanwhile nationally, school boards, college officials and

Worker Layoff Seen

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa road construction contractors predict a layoff of about 40% of their workforce next year.

Jim Norsworthy, social studies department head, will report on new curriculum approaches under consideration.

Moreover, the law is unclear about its application to records placed in student files before the Nov. 19 effective date. Some educators interpret the 45-day delay period to mean that they must comply by Jan. 3, 1975, and others are assuming they must respond within 45 days from the date each request is made to see student records.

Once a student or parent

requests to see a student's records and if the school removes any of the contents before the file is inspected, those records removed may not ever be replaced in the file.

Waverly — The District 145 Board of Education will review policies on confidentiality of student records and procedures for expulsion and suspension at an 8 p.m. meeting Monday in the new Hamlow Elementary School here.

The board has scheduled no formal action on students' due process or on handling student records, pending a review of the 1974 Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act by Nebraska school board attorneys in Kearney next weekend.

Supt. Dale Siefkes will report to the board on funding under LB403, which provides state money for part of school districts' special education programs. District 145 serves about 100 handicapped students.

The State Board of Education, the Department of Administrative Services and the governor's office are currently trying to straighten out a mix-up about funding procedures under the 1974 state law.

Board member Wayne Nielsen will report on contract negotiations with the Waverly Education Association. The WEA and the board have agreed to accept a compromise contract for 1974-75, granting teachers an 11% overall salary and fringe benefit increase. Final language on non-salary items in the contract remains to be worked out.

Jim Norsworthy, social studies department head, will report on new curriculum approaches under consideration.

Moreover, the law is unclear about its application to records placed in student files before the Nov. 19 effective date. Some educators interpret the 45-day delay period to mean that they must comply by Jan. 3, 1975, and others are assuming they must respond within 45 days from the date each request is made to see student records.

Once a student or parent

requests to see a student's records and if the school removes any of the contents before the file is inspected, those records removed may not ever be replaced in the file.

No Charges Yet In Boy's Death From Shooting

Doniphan (AP) — No decision had been announced late Friday on whether charges would be filed in connection with the shooting death of a Doniphan youth Wednesday.

The victim was James Clark Jr., 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Clark.

Hall County authorities said

Clark was a passenger with two other boys, identified as Wesley Barker, 16, and Finley Plenty Chief, 15, both of Doniphan.

Authorities said Plenty Chief was holding a .22-caliber pistol

when it discharged, striking

Clark in the back of the head.

The boys rushed Clark to a

Grand Island hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Authorities said an autopsy is scheduled.

Investment To Be Cut

Calgary, Alta. (AP) — The oil industry is expected to cut almost $1 billion from planned investment in Canada next year as a result of the intensified constitutional battle between Ottawa and the provinces over source taxation.

Christmas '74 May Be Brighter

Jacobson Optimistic About Cuts In Service

By The Associated Press
State Budget Director John Jacobson is "reasonably optimistic" about constructing a preliminary 1975-76 spending guide that would avoid cuts in services.

"Our very sincere effort will be to provide the same level of services in '75 and '76," he said.

"I'm reasonably optimistic that the present level of services can be maintained at 2½ and 10," he said.

Those figures are the sales and personal income tax rates, respectively, for calendar 1975. The State Board of Equalization, a 3-2 vote dominated by the Republican majority, recently cut the individual income tax rate by 1%. The sales tax was unchanged.

The Budget Gov. J. James Exon will work out with Jacobson for submission in January will be predicated on continuation of those rates into calendar 1976.

He said the unknown quantity at this stage is the amount of revenue the 1975 tax rates would generate if they continued in 1976.

However, he intends to obtain dar 1976, covering the final half of fiscal 1975-76.

Jacobson said the original budget worked up by his staff for Exon's consideration will be based "on the minimum number of dollars needed to maintain the present level of services."

If a tight-listed budget designed to maintain service levels can be funded under the projected revenues, Jacobson said, then only details would remain.

If the revenue projections show an insufficient level, he said, "then we're going to have to make some very hard decisions."

American Meter Co. To Lay Off 90 Workers

Nebraska City — Approximately 90 workers of 325 at the American Meter Co. will be laid off, effective Dec. 30, according to Gary Blakeman, plant manager.

He blamed current inventory levels and the effect of the economic conditions for the layoff.

Following the Thanksgiving two-day holiday, the plant will reopen Monday and operate at full production for two weeks, Blakeman said. Then the plant will be closed until Dec. 30 when the reduced labor crew returns to work, he explained.

The work force was placed on a four-day week recently and had been scheduled to return to a five-day week Dec. 2.

Blakeman said the duration of the layoff cannot be determined at this time.

Thefts Top $45,000

Des Moines (UPI) — The Des Moines Police Department reported that through October, more than 1,500 bicycles valued at more than $45,000 had been taken in the city this year.

By The Associated Press
State Budget Director John Jacobson is "reasonably optimistic" about constructing a preliminary 1975-76 spending guide that would avoid cuts in services.

"Our very sincere effort will be to provide the same level of services in '75 and '76," he said.

"I'm reasonably optimistic that the present level of services can be maintained at 2 1/2 and 10," he said.

Those figures are the sales and personal income tax rates, respectively, for calendar 1975. The State Board of Equalization, in a 3-2 vote dominated by the Republican majority, recently cut the individual income tax rate by 1%. The sales tax was unchanged.

The Budget Gov. J. James Exon will work out with Jacobson for submission in January will be predicated on continuation of those rates.

However, he intends to obtain 1976, covering the final half of fiscal 1975-76.

Jacobson said the original budget worked up by his staff for Exon's consideration will be based "on the minimum number of dollars needed to maintain the present level of services."

He said the unknown quantity at this stage is the amount of revenue the 1975 tax rates would generate if they continued in 1976.

If the revenue projections show an insufficient level, he said, "then we're going to have to make some very hard decisions."

revenue projections through the middle of calendar 1976 next week from the Revenue Department.

If a tight-fisted budget designed to maintain service levels can be funded under the projected revenues, Jacobson said, then only details would remain.

If the revenue projections show an insufficient level, he said, "then we're going to have to make some very hard decisions."

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
